

ATLANTANS AND VISITING THOUSANDS IN THRILL OF TECH-GEORGIA CHAMPIONSHIP STRUGGLE TODAY

Remus Takes Stand Today in Battle for Life

PAL OF BOOTLEG KING CONVINCED PRISONER INSANE

George Connors Startles Court With Revelations of His Observations of Remus' Mental State.

MURDER PLOT LAID TO FOES OF FRIEND

Connors Claims He Told Remus That Mrs. Remus and Dodge Sought Gunmen To Kill Him.

Cincinnati, December 2.—(AP)—George Remus' most intimate associate of the last eight or nine years appeared as a witness for him in his murder trial here today.

It was George Connors, now a legitimate dealer in whisky, after serving a sentence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary with Remus for violation of the federal prohibition law, who startled a revelation of the intimate observations of Remus' mental functions.

Connors, tall, lithe, curly-haired, close shaven and a picture of sartorial perfection, ascended the witness stand at 3:51 p. m. Five minutes later he was deep in the narration of the long chain of circumstances which caused him to reach a conclusion as to Remus' mental condition last October 6, when he shot and killed his estranged wife, Imogene Holmes Remus.

Until he had told of the observations which led him to his opinion as to Remus' sanity or insanity, he was not permitted to state his conclusions. He was ready, however, to say Remus was insane upon the fatal day. Connors was the last witness for the defense ahead of the defendant himself.

There was but little hope that Remus would be reached before late tomorrow, however, for interrogation of Connors was not complete at adjournment today. Completion of Connors' direct testimony and a planned lengthy cross-examination indicated it might be Monday before Remus would get the witness stand.

Connors stated that he was released from the Atlanta penitentiary April 7, 1925, and that Remus was freed the following September.

From two days after Remus' release Connors had been in contact with Remus virtually daily.

The appearance of the mysterious Connors brought the high point of today's otherwise dull and dreary session.

From the very inception of the murder trial his name had played a part in the interrogation of nearly every witness.

The prosecution in its opening statement named Connors as one of three who planned with Remus the slaying of Mrs. Remus. It would be shown, the state asserted, that when Remus killed his wife he was not a transiently insane lone slayer, but instead he was a cool, calculating executioner appointed at a conspiracy hatched by the epic struggle today.

Demon Statistician OVERLOOKS NOTHING IN REACHING TOTAL Makes Crowd 38,161

BY RALPH T. JONES.

How many people will see the Tech-Georgia game?

Careful investigation Friday puts the figure at 38,161. If anyone has been overlooked, kindly notify this office at once and corrections will not be made.

It was easy to find the number of tickets sold. Just the same as the number put on sale. There are none left, N-O-N-E.

So that gives 35,462 who will be inside because they paid their way.

There will be forty men on each playing squad. That makes eighty more.

Each team will have seven coaches. Fourteen to add to the total.

Each team will have a head trainer and two assistant trainers. Add six.

Each player will have a student attendant. To rub him down, etc. Add eighty.

There will be two waterboys for each side. Add four.

Officials for the game will include a referee, umpire, head lineman, field judge and two timekeepers. That makes six more.

There will be two sponsors for Tech and two for Georgia. Four of the decorative sex to count.

The estimable Rell J. Spiller, baseball magnate in the summer and peanut and soft drink concessionaire at all times, will have 50 strident tongued purveyors of refreshments in the stands.

There will be three hundred Tech boys who will be inside without paying their way in coin of the realm, by reason of their duties as gatekeepers and ushers.

Twenty more will be there as ticket sellers, an entirely unnecessary function on an occasion of this kind.

There will be another twenty individuals inside for the purpose of selling programs.

Old players for either team are invited in free, technically to "sit on the bench," however, it is doubtful if this designation of seat locale is strictly true. However, there will be about 250 for each team, in this category. Count 500 more.

Newspapers and photographers there to record the details of the special struggle for the entire nation to enjoy, will total seventy-five.

Dr. Brittain, president of Tech, will be host to 100, mostly editors or newspaper staffers who are especially interested in the fortunes of the two institutions.

Ten colored boys, groundkeepers, will see the game without charge, other than that involved in their work.

There will be at least 100 Atlanta policemen inside. Both sides and all.

AL SMITH DEFENDS RIGHT TO ORGANIZE AGAINST DRY LAW

Governor Stands for Enforcement But Sees No Reason Why Citizens Should Not Seek Repeal.

Albany, N. Y., December 2.—(AP)—For the first time since he has been prominently mentioned as a democratic presidential possibility, Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, tonight broke his silence on the prohibition question by declaring that while he stands for enforcement of all laws, he sees no reason why any group of voters should not oppose the federal prohibition statutes.

The governor's declaration, made at the annual convention dinner of the New York League of Women Voters, was in answer to a resolution adopted by the Nassau county branch of the League condemning organized opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act and urging "respect for an obedience to law."

"What's wrong about that?" asked the governor after he had read the resolution.

Atlanta Grid Capital Today, Gould Says

Associated Press Sports Editor Believes Georgia's Big Advantage May Be Lessened by Soggy Condition of Field.

BY ALAN J. GOULD.

Head of Associated Press Sports Department.

(Written Expressly for The Constitution.)

The back of the slicker of at least one University of Georgia undergraduate in the scurrying, sloshing football throng Friday bore this legend:

"Georgia beat Yale;
Yale beat the Army;
The Army won the War."

All of which may be true this evening, after the battle is over, but it won't be flaunted with quite so much enthusiasm if these confident and unconquered Georgia Bulldogs fail to beat Georgia Tech this afternoon in the climax classic of 1927 southern football.

No two rivals anywhere in the realm of the pigskin have come down to the final test with any more at stake than this game.

In the twenty-two times they have met before, each has turned

In ten victories and participated in a pair of scoreless ties, so that leadership in the series is involved. Both are unbeaten in the Southern conference, where the championship may be clearly claimed by the winner. To cap it all, Georgia, undefeated and untied through nine games, is in position to assert a strong and healthy claim to national title distinction by turning back the Yellow Jackets and making it a perfect season.

To an observer who has studied the rival prospects chiefly at long range, it would seem that Georgia is entitled to be a decided favorite, at least two touchdowns stronger than Tech, on the basis of their past performances.

Any team going into the game with two such ends as Captain Chick Shiver and Tom Nash—all

'NO RAIN' FORECAST IS BALM TO HEART OF FOOTBALL FAN

Leave Slickers at Home, Advises Weather Man, in Predicting "Cold and Dry."

No rain today!

Speaking of Santa Claus, how's that for good news?

For such constitutes the official prediction of the local weather bureau in reference to the weather which will prevail when 22 young collegians become entangled in a football classic on Grant field this afternoon—perhaps you've heard of it.

Mr. C. F. von Hermann, head of the local weather bureau, became the most popular man in town Friday night by his prognostication that the thoroughly dampening drizzle of the past two days will cease and that the rising sun today will bring sharp westerly winds to the city.

But it won't rain!

Mr. von Hermann says that while murky clouds will threaten the dryness of things, you may leave your slicker at home with absolute confidence.

So take that! Jupe Pluribus.

The rain, which has drizzled consistently upon the hurray backs of the local populace since early Thursday night is slated to stop at an early hour this morning. The entire fall totals a slight bit over 2 1/2 inches, C. V. von Hermann said.

Temperature will be considerably lower today, becoming more nearly to a state which enables footballers to work in perfect weather conditions. Cloudy skies, which are slated to hold throughout today, will clear early Saturday night, according to the prediction.

Early arrivals Friday were greeted by a serious dash of inclement weather, which, however, failed to dampen the spirit of any of the enthusiasts.

Temperature Friday ranged from 38 degrees to 43 degrees.

FOOTBALL-MAD CITY SEETHING WITH PARTISANS

More Than 38,000 Fans Expected To Jam Grant Field Stadium With Opening Whistle of Game

POLICE RESERVES PLACED ON GUARD

Game Will Decide Conference and Southern Titles; Both Teams Primed for Epic Battle.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

A football-mad city, jammed with its thousands and thousands of University of Georgia and Georgia Tech football fans, alumni, family and friends and more thousands of gridiron followers, with every hotel room filled and more thousands sought in vain, a city with its sidewalks and pavements a riot of people and automobiles and color—that is Atlanta, this morning, its every thought on the titanic gridiron classic at Grant field at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the inspired battle between two worthy foes, Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia, for the football championship of Georgia, the southern conference, the south and the nation.

More than 35,000 people will jam their way into the stadium to witness the battle, while hundreds of thousands of others in Atlanta, in Georgia and all over the country will follow the detailed reports, play by play, in breath-taking suspense.

Atlanta this morning is filled to the last available room with over 30,000 visitors from out of town here for the game. Every train, every interurban bus and every automobile highway pours its additional hundreds into the city every few minutes, adding to the throngs on the streets, enhancing the enthusiasm already at white-hot pitch.

Welcomed Officially.

Governor L. G. Hardman and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale have issued official words of welcome to the visitors. The police department has efficiently arranged its duties to take care of the traffic, to guard against pocket pickers and sneak thieves and to assure everyone in the city, visitor or citizen, as carefree and satisfactory a time as possible.

The two squads are ready, waiting for the official test of their football careers. The test which will decide whether Georgia, winner of every game in the southern conference schedule of the season, or Tech, winner of all her conference games except the tied contest with Vanderbilt, is the greatest southern football machine of the day.

And, in view of Georgia's defeat of Yale, undisputed champions of the north, to decide whether Georgia can claim the national football championship.

REV. SPRAYBERRY DIES OF INJURIES

Barnesville Minister Was Struck Down by Bicycle While Attending Methodist Conference Here.

The Rev. A. M. Sprayberry, 52, of Barnesville, Ga., a member of the North Georgia Methodist conference for over 20 years, died Friday night at Grady hospital as a result of injuries received last Friday night when struck down on Edgewood avenue by a bicycle operated by a negro boy.

The Rev. Sprayberry was attending the annual conference of the association then in session at the Wesley Memorial church, and the news of his fatal accident cast a pall of sadness over the conference.

For the past two years he was pastor of a circuit of churches in and around Barnesville and he was one of the most beloved ecclesiastical figures in the entire state.

He suffered a fractured skull as a result of his accident and he remained in a state of semi-consciousness during the time of his confinement at Grady hospital.

The Rev. Sprayberry leaves his widow, one daughter, Margaret Sprayberry, a senior at Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga., and two brothers, the Rev. J. A. Sprayberry, also a member of the North Georgia conference, and R. H. Sprayberry, of Richmond, Va. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Rockmart Methodist church, Rockmart, Ga., with the Rev. L. W. Twigg, presiding elder of Rev. Sprayberry's circuit, and the Rev. Homer Thompson officiating. Burial will be in Rockmart.

Awtry & Lowndes company, funeral directors, are in charge.

MRS. LILLIENDAHL HAS DAY IN COURT

31 Witnesses for Two Murder Defendants Score Heavily Against Charges Made by State.

BY SAM LOVE.

Mays Landing, N. J., December 2.—(United News.)—The Lilliendahl Beach $1,000-a-day defense, directed by the puffing majordomo, Clifford F. McCarty, scored heavily against the state today.

The couple accused of the murder of old Dr. A. William Lilliendahl swept away or cast doubts upon practically every implication of New Jersey's carefully gathered circumstantial structure, which was intended to send them to the electric chair.

Thirty-one witnesses had testified for Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl and neighbor Willis Beach, the romantic poultry man, when supreme court recessed until Saturday morning.

Admitted Lovers.

Alone among the state's contentions one remained practically undamaged. The widow and the poultryman were admittedly, as the phrase goes hereabouts, "sweet on each other."

Happy in the knowledge that this is not a capital crime in New Jersey, Mrs. Lilliendahl and her long-pooled neighbor went to their cells wreathed in smiles.

Last Witness.

The last witness of the day threw a monkey-wrench into the state's case. His name was Martin Lashley, of Oceanville, N. J., his age about 20 and his occupation not given.

His testimony, if the jury believes it—and the frantic prosecutor S. Cameron Hilt was unable to shake the youth—bears out Mrs. Lilliendahl's simple explanation of her husband's murder—that it was done by two negro highwaymen.

Lashley swore that he saw two men hanging on the running board of a car that turned into the lonely murder lane about 12:30 p. m. September 15. This is the time fixed by state detectives as the hour of the old doctor's death.

The surprise appearance of the defense star was carefully prepared. The jury heard first of the excellent character of the defendants and their happy home life.

Signal Flag Explained.

Then the "signal flag" marking the murder lane was explained away.

Next it was testified that Mrs. Lilliendahl did wear a handsome diamond and other rings, which the state disputed.

Finally a finger-print expert testified to marks on the doorknob of the Lilliendahl car, "made by a heavy hand as if somebody trying to hang on."

The stage was set for the star, and he scrambled on, a gangling youth with a positive manner.

Lashley Testifies.

Lashley said he was driving along the Atsion road toward Hammonville in a sedan about 12:30 p. m. September 15. He had been calling at several farms.

"Tell us what you saw as you passed the lane leading into the swamp."

"Well, I was in a hurry and driving pretty fast—50 miles an hour or a little better."

"I seen a car coming toward me

Wales' Friend May Marry Mary L. Baker

New Romance Seen for Girl Who Jilted Allister McCormick.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.)

Chicago, December 2.—Henry Channon, personal friend of the Prince of Wales, Prince Paul of Serbia, the Duke of Connaught, and other nobles, had planned to spend the Christmas holidays with his mother here, but he received a cablegram today from Mary Landon Baker, in London, who immediately threw his London life in a traveling bag and caught the first train east.

That Miss Baker's cablegram may have contained the single word "yes," he is hinted in society circles here. Channon's name was linked with her's at the time she left Allister McCormick and a church full of society folks waiting for the wedding that never took place.

Channon introduced her to the smart London set, wherein she immediately became a favorite. Intimates of both say she always has been more devoted to Channon than any other of her long list of admirers and an announcement of their engagement is expected. Miss Baker has lived abroad for the past six years. After the death of her father, her mother joined her in London.

Allister McCormick, whom she jilted at the altar, afterward married an English girl and that union has been most happy, according to their friends.

ATTACK ON DIXIE SENATORS IS SEEN

Senator Reed, Leader of Vane-Smith Forces, Said To Be Planning Counter Attack.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, December 2.—(United News.)—A surprise counter attack against the fight to exclude Senators-elect Smith of Illinois and Vane of Pennsylvania is being discussed among republican senators.

There were reports around the capital tonight that Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, leader of the fight in behalf of Vane, planned to lead a spectacular defense by turning the attack on democratic election conditions in the south.

One report was that two democrats would be named and that it would be insisted that if the two republicans were to be deprived of their votes the same rule should apply to the democrats.

Senator Reed has given a good deal of study to election conditions in the south. During the filibuster over the Vane case last spring he discussed the question of negro suffrage in southern states, citing election returns to support his contention that the will of republican voters in southern states was not registered in the returns.

BENNETT J. DOTY IS GIVEN LIBERTY

Soldier Praised for Gallantry by Colonel But Told He Should Have Died for Desertion.

Sidi Bel Abbes, Algeria, December 2.—(AP)—Bennett J. Doty, of Biloxi, Miss., was released today from the foreign legion after winning honors and nearly facing a firing squad during his service with the famous organization.

Doty's discharge frees him after serving only 30 months of a five-year enlistment. Old timers, hardened by years of service, stood aghast at the American's luck in winning his freedom after court-martial for desertion in Syria and pardon after serving part of an eight-year sentence for the military crime.

Colonel Rollet, commander at the legion headquarters here, informed Doty only yesterday that his discharge had arrived. Doty had made no personal request for his release. When he was discharged from prison he said he expected to go to Morocco and see some more fighting.

"Lucky Devil," Shout Men.

The detachment of which Doty was a member filed past the gates of the fortress at Sidi Bel Abbes on the way to the Middle Atlas region just as Doty was obtaining his release papers.

"Lucky devil," shouted his comrades.

When Doty was called into the colonel's office the bronzed and whiskered

Governor and Mayor Join To Welcome Fans

Governor L. G. Hardman and Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, of Atlanta, joined Friday in official statements of welcome to the thousands of Georgians who have made Grant field the mecca of their pilgrimage for the epic struggle today.

In his statement Governor Hardman said:

"I extend my cordial greetings and hearty welcome. Let us enjoy this outstanding sporting event to the utmost; let us cheer loyally our favorite teams; let us stand squarely for a clean and fair struggle, and to both victor and vanquished let us extend congratulations for the glory these teams have brought to their respective institutions and to their state."

"Be it a victory for Georgia, be it a victory for Tech, be it a tie game, let us pay homage to the great advancement both these splendid institutions are making and wish for them even greater progress, not only on the athletic field, but in scholastic work and in the building of a better and better citizens."

Mayor Ragsdale made visitors welcome to the city in these words:

"Thousands of persons from all parts of the south and many from the east and the west will attend the football classic Saturday afternoon at Tech flats," the mayor said. "Again the eyes of the world are turned southward, and to the southern metropolis, Atlanta, Georgia and the south thus are taking their places in the halls of athletic fame. Two powerful Georgia teams are battling for the undisputed championship."

"In behalf of the city I wish to extend to visitors a hearty welcome and to turn Atlanta over to them, feeling sure that even the enthusiastic supporters of the opposing teams will not violate that trust by abusing it in the post-game celebration. Atlanta is glad to have the thousands who will crowd the city despite inclement weather which is threatening to mar the game in some respects. While they are here we want them to have a good time, to enjoy our famous hospitality and become imbued with the nationally-recognized Atlanta spirit."

Mother Ready To Sell Ear; Wants $4,000

Offer Comes in Response to Advertisement of Society Leader.

Chicago, December 2.—(AP)—A New York and Chicago society woman advertised today for a left ear and tonight she had one applicant willing to give an ear but the applicant asked $4,000 for it instead of the $2,500 offered.

The newspaper advertisement offered $2,500 through the woman's attorney "for one left ear to be grafted on client" and specified that the operation was to be performed by a competent surgeon and the matter would be kept strictly confidential. Applicants were required to be light-skinned, not more than 25 years old and to submit photographs.

Jay J. McCarthy said he was attorney for the woman who wants an ear and whom he described as a society woman of New York but formerly of Chicago who lost the member a few years ago in an automobile accident.

McCarthy said he had received one application to give an ear. The applicant, a married woman and a mother, said she would give her left ear but that the price would be $4,000. McCarthy said his client intended to give as much as $5,000 if the operation were a success.

Film Beauty Causes Battle In Hollywood

Former Halfback Is in Hospital and Picture Director in Jail.

Hollywood, December 2.—(United News.)—A former all-American football star was recovering from an attempt on his life and a motion picture director was placed under arrest on a charge of assault to commit murder as police tonight sought to locate a pretty motion picture actress over whom the melee was said to have fought.

Although the action took place Saturday night, facts in the case came to light only when William Nigh, the director, was placed under arrest. His asserted victim, Edward Usher, former Michigan university halfback, suffered a fractured skull from a blow with an automobile picture "bit" player, has left her residence here to avoid being called as a material witness, police reported.

The quarrel, according to Deputy District Attorney Judson, who issued the complaint, followed a party.

Despite Nigh's objections, it was said, Miss Usher accompanied Usher to the home of friends in Laurel canyon.

As Usher and Miss Jarvis were leaving in the early morning hours Nigh and his chauffeur jumped on the former football luminary, it was asserted. In the violent free-for-all that followed Usher was struck over the head with the automobile crank.

Mighty Georgia Avalanche Engulfs Atlanta's Streets

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Toot, toot. Honk, honk. Rah, rah, rah. Rear and rumble, rumble, and roar. All Georgia, personified in one mighty avalanche, swept into Atlanta Friday night, engulfed the downtown streets, swamped the hotel lobbies, overflowed all the eating houses, eddied into drawing rooms of private homes and trickled out into all the suburbs as the Georgia Bulldogs prepared to meet the Tech Yellow Jackets Saturday in mortal combat. Oh, how it rained!

Shrill cries of hotel porters, screaming of auto horns, shouts of frantic hotel clerks, grunts of perspiring bell boys mingled in resounding discord as the crowds milled, jostled, shoved and pushed their way through the lobbies. Rain, rain.

Torrents of rain and rivers of mud and slush checked not the advancing hosts, and it is doubtful if dynamite, machine guns or poison gas could keep the people from pouring into Atlanta for this classic of the south. Rain, Oh, how it rained!

As the university crowd came largely from out of town, the hotels were jammed mostly with Georgia supporters. Red and Black, waving in all directions, but with the gay Gold and White of Tech making a gallant stand. Still it rained.

Regular Do-Devils.

Dixie little fellows, smiling and chirping, wearing red and black stockings, garters, bloomers and red and black step-ins, as far as anybody knows. Red, green, blue, drab and yellow slickers. Cuties in slickers. Freshmen in slickers. Old grads in slickers. All of 'em regular do-devils. Still they come. Merciful Heavens, are there this many people in Georgia? More little flappers, blonde and Auburn, chestnut-haired and curly, all becoiled, befringed and beslickered, with snuffling lips and dancing eyes. Oceans of hat boxes, overnight and all-night grips, week-end satchels and full-week pocketbooks containing a tooth brush and lipsticks follow in their wake.

Caravans still arrive. The Terminal, Union and other stations spew forth endless streams. Taxicabs filter in droves. Traffic jams on every corner. Policemen clasp in arctic blue in the face with shouting. Street cars clang, clanging in all directions. Stores, shops, cafes, soda fountains, the

LILLIAN GISH ATTACKS 'SLANDER' DEPOSITIONS
BY GEORGE SHAFER.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Hollywood, Calif., December 2.—Judge Ray Schuler today was asked to consider an affidavit from Lillian Gish's attorney which sets forth that Charles H. Duell, in suing Miss Gish, the Metro-Goldwyn corporation and other individuals and corporations, is seeking to introduce "slandering and defamatory" allegations against one of the defendants in the form of a deposition taken before a notary.

Attorney Norman Steyer appeared for Miss Gish. He asked Judge Schuler to compel the taking of Duell's deposition before a judge, rather than a notary, and gave as his reason that a judge would rule out matters not germane to the legal issues and prevent introduction to public court records of disparaging matter.

The Los Angeles echo of the Duell-Gish suit bears every promise of racing as acrimoniously as the suit in the New York federal court which Duell lost some years ago.

Miss Gish already is under citation in one action pending before Judge Walter Gates, because of her refusal to answer questions in a deposition. Her attorney has still another petition pending before Presiding Judge Charles Burnell.

FUTURE SUPPLY OF OIL DISCUSSED
BY ALFRED P. RECK.
Washington, December 2.—(United News.)—Automobiles will continue to operate on gasoline for hundreds of years to come, oil wells will spout black flowing gold into a time so far distant that it cannot be estimated; when old fields are exhausted, new oil pockets will be discovered, the American Mining congress was told by oil experts today.

Oil, its future, conservation and possibility of government control were topics discussed today by the congress, representing engineers, mining men, oil men and operators from all sections of the country.

Three definite conclusions were reached: First, that the deposits of oil already known still have 80 per cent of their original oil, all unextracted. Second, conservation is advisable but not because of any danger of the supply becoming exhausted.

Third, that the government should not attempt to control production. Fourth, conservation is advisable in the west contain more oil in solid form than has ever been extracted from pools. Senator Oddie, of Nevada, told the mining congress.

These shale fields were pictured as the source of oil after all other fields have been exhausted. In addition, oil shale is found in practically every state in the union in many countries of the world and in such quantities that all fears over the possibilities of an oilless and gasolineless world are without foundation, it was said.

TRIAL OF INDIANA GOVERNOR PUT OFF
Indianapolis, Ind., December 2.—(United News.)—Further delay in trial of Governor Ed Jackson and two co-defendants charged with bribery was granted today when Judge Oscar H. Montgomery fixed Monday for hearing on a plea in abatement to halt proceedings in the case.

The decision to hear the abatement plea came after Judge Montgomery had refused to quash the indictments against Jackson, Robert L. Marsh and George V. Coffey.

The decision that the grand jury which voted the indictments was improperly drawn was the basis of the new plea. If it is overruled, Judge Montgomery will set an early date for trial of the case.

Indictment of the governor and his associates was the climax of three special grand jury investigations into alleged political corruption in Indiana during the height of the power of the Ku Klux Klan. The charges were instigated by D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon, and brought to public attention through crusading newspaper editors.

Stephenson, from his cell in the state penitentiary where he is serving a life sentence, furnished the information about which the investigation was based.

The specific charge against Jackson is that when he was secretary of state and McCray was governor in 1923, he and his associates offered $10,000 if McCray would appoint a county collector favorable to Jackson's political faction.

At that time McCray was involved in state charges in connection with his handling of the case of a bankrupt and was accused of illegal manipulation of securities to recoup. McCray's son-in-law, William P. McCray, a county prosecutor and resigned because he felt he could not conscientiously prosecute the governor. Jackson is alleged to have proposed to McCray appoint his man to Evansville place and in return to cash bribe McCray was to be guaranteed immunity.

Barrett Will Welcome Unveiling Party at Capital
Charles Barrett, of Washington, Friday was named chairman of a reception committee which will welcome the Georgia delegation to Washington when a large caravan journey to the national capital to attend the exercises attendant to unveiling the statue of Alexander H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederacy, congressman, governor of Georgia, historian and author.

The appointment was made by Henderson Hallen, grand marshal of the ceremonies, and Mr. Barrett immediately selected Robert Means Thompson and George Rothwell Brown, members of the Georgia society, and several other prominent members of Washington's social and political circles as committee members.

Additional details were completed by the committee, and Dr. Garnett Quillian, chairman of the state statutory committee, stated that a completed program will be ready for release this afternoon.

Governor L. G. Hardman has issued invitations to William Gibbs McAdams, J. Jacques Elias, former secretary of Stephens and now a resident of Washington, and other prominent figures to be present at the unveiling ceremony which will take place at Memorial hall, Washington, December 8.

President Calvin Coolidge, Senators William J. Harris and Walter F. George, of Georgia, and many other nationally-known figures will have parts on the program.

A wreath will be placed on the monument of Abraham Lincoln, war-time president; Presidents Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

A special train bearing the cadets from Georgia Tech, Emory university, University of Georgia, G. M. A. former Confederate soldiers, and other military detachments will leave the city at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, while the civilian contingent will en-train at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Mr. Coolidge will receive the delegation at noon Thursday at the white house, according to a letter from the president to Governor Hardman.

3 Million Fund To Beat Dry Law Charged to Wets
Forsyth, Ga., December 2.—Mrs. Florence Ewell Atkins, of Milledgeville, temperance lecturer of national reputation, spoke here last night at the Forsyth Methodist church to an appreciative audience sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance union.

Mrs. Atkins said that it should be enough when a nation enacted a law for its citizens to abide by that law especially when a people had spoken so overwhelmingly in its favor, but the insidious work of the whisky interests in its latest program to use three millions of dollars to attempt to repeal the Volstead act forced those in favor of prohibition to keep up the fight.

SCHOOLS HELPING OGLETHORPE DRIVE
With no luncheon meeting and workers' reports scheduled today, the Oglethorpe university endowment fund campaign for $500,000 will rest over the weekend with the total of $130,000 reported subscribed at the Friday luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel. The next report will be made Monday at 12:30 o'clock.

Subscriptions Friday of $100 from a group of teachers at the Georgia Avenue school, indicated that the public and private schools of the city are lining up to aid Oglethorpe, along with a special committee of six members, appointed by the Civitan club to represent that organization in the work of the drive. Sidney Wellhouse is chairman of the Civitan committee.

The call for more workers in the campaign is still being urgently sounded by the drive officials, who state that many subscriptions have not been obtained simply because of an insufficient number of workers to call on prospective donors.

It is pointed out that because of the fact that many business men make yearly charitable budgets and that the 1927 budget is already exhausted, the Oglethorpe fund may be subscribed to on the 1928 budget, and subscriptions, where desired, may be spread over a number of years.

Progress in the drive has been remarkable considering the small number of workers in the field. Dr. Jacobs says, and many subscriptions were sent through the mail.

A total of $81,000 remains to be raised to complete Atlanta's quota of $250,000, which will be matched by an equal gift from J. T. Lupton, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

MAN WHO DROWNED BOY FOR INSURANCE IS FOUND GUILTY
New York, December 2.—(P)—A verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree was returned late today against Joseph Lefkowitz, 42, for the drowning last summer of 20-year-old Benjamin Goldstein to collect $70,000 insurance. Harry Greenberg, 17, who was tried with Lefkowitz, was acquitted.

SCHOOL PROJECTS TO START MONDAY

Actual start on the first five school projects to be constructed from school bond funds will begin Monday and will be continued to uninterrupted completion if city council and the mayor approve action of the Atlanta bond commission Friday in recommending that electrical contracts be awarded to the Howard P. Foley company.

The Palmer-Spivey Construction company is working on the first of the schools Monday morning and action of the bond commission Friday assured passage of the electrical contract, according to leaders in city council.

There had been some delay in approving an electrical contractor, and the bond commission at a special meeting Wednesday rejected the recommendation of the board of education that the bid of the Foley company for $30,000 for the entire lot be accepted.

Members of the commission reconsidered their former action Friday following an appeal of Will L. Hancock, chairman of the school contact committee of the bond commission, and recommended the Foley bid. This removes the last obstacle to the contract award, it is believed, since city council has indicated it would approve the Foley proposal. In making his appeal Mr. Hancock stated that he was actuated solely by a desire for harmony between council and the bond commission. At the same time he asked for closer cooperation among the groups which have to sanction expenditure of bond money.

Clare & Co. will do the heating work on the new schools, and plumbing will be done by the Farrell Heating & Plumbing company.

LUMBERMEN ELECT AUGUSTAN PRESIDENT

Election of M. E. Dress, of Augusta, Ga., as president of the Georgia Retail Lumber and Millwork association, featured the closing session Friday morning of the annual meeting of that body at the Henry Grady hotel. Other officers chosen were: R. M. Willingham, of Macon, Ga., first vice president; R. C. Morrison, Atlanta, second vice president; and W. B. Willingham, Jr., of Atlanta, chairman of the board of directors.

S. H. Adams, of Covington, was named director of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association, and L. L. Daugherty, of Valdosta, was named director in charge of associate memberships.

The following district directors also were named: J. E. Fyatt, of Atlanta, director for the first district; John B. Mills, Griffin, second district; J. W. McCook, Macon, third district; E. Darden Borders, Cedartown, fourth district; Henry Washington, Gainesville, fifth district; J. P. Carter, Athens, sixth district; C. B. Landrum, Millen, seventh district; T. A. Daniel, LaGrange, eighth district; Kenneth B. Hodges, Albany, ninth district; and F. M. Durant, Savannah, tenth district.

Harry O. Mitchell, Atlanta district manager of the United States department of commerce, will leave tonight for Savannah to aid in the organization in that city of the Savannah Foreign Trade council.

The preliminary meeting of the Savannah council was held a month ago in the Savannah Morning News town hall, with representatives of the board of trade, the cotton exchange, the Exchange club and the port authority present.

After spending several days in Savannah, Mr. Mitchell will go to Jacksonville to confer with Walter N. Pearce, district manager of the department of commerce in that city.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS WILL MEET TUESDAY

The last social gathering of the year of the Kibla Temple No. 123, Dramatic Order Knights of Pythias, will be held at the Pythian Castle hall, Forty-third street, Tuesday. The evening's entertainment will begin at 6:30 o'clock with a buffet supper, to be followed by music and dancing until 11 o'clock.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

If all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is especially for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist—(adv.)

Oil King Bids Fair To Retain Golf Standing

Ormond Beach, Fla., December 2.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., in his 88th winter, promises to retain his standing as perhaps the world's most picturesque perennial golfer.

The aged oil magnate has come to his winter home, "The Casements," earlier than usual to escape the chilling blasts of the east and to indulge himself in his habitual daily round of golf.

Last winter Rockefeller shot eight holes in an amazing 45, while friends of several decades looked on with the declaration that the oil king "grows younger and younger and now can shoot a better game of golf than in 20 years."

"I'm feeling better than ever before—feeling fine," Rockefeller told his friends as he arrived here last night and a fire in the aged man's eye shone eloquently. He said he was gladdened at the prospect of another winter in Florida.

Rockefeller's arrival was a sensation in the caddy house because the negro boys sensed an impending silver shower. They always included in the recipients of the famous Rockefeller dimes and had rather "tote" his clubs for one of the tokens than carry the bag of a lesser millionaire for the whole dollar. Rockefeller pays them well, the dimes come as "gifts." He jokes with them too and they were anxious today to learn what new wisecrack the magnate would spring on them.

25,000 GALLONS OF LIQUOR SEIZED BY PROH AGENTS

Approximately 25,000 gallons of liquor were diverted from the Atlanta Christmas market through the efforts of prohibition agents during November, according to the monthly report of Howard F. Wright, deputy administrator for North Georgia.

Mr. Wright's report shows that 2,232 gallons of the finished liquor product were seized during the month, and that 202,920 gallons of still beer, or enough to distill more than 20,000 gallons of liquor, at the rate of 10 gallons of beer to one gallon of whiskey, were confiscated.

The report states that 106 stills were seized, 11 automobiles confiscated for hauling whisky, $42,570 worth of illicit whisky properly destroyed, 46 arrests made for violation of the prohibition law, and 64 prosecutions recommended to the district attorney.

GEORGIA CENTRAL
HEAD TO ADDRESS
CO-OPS AT TECH

J. J. Teller, president of the Central of Georgia railway, will address the students of the Georgia Tech co-operative department this morning at 11 o'clock. The meeting is to be in charge of Professor J. E. McDaniel, head of the department, and is to take place in the physics lecture hall on the Georgia Tech campus.

More than 100 Georgia Tech students are now employed through the Central of Georgia railway in part-time work. The arrangement with the railroad and the college is to have the students work for three weeks in the mechanical department and go to Georgia Tech three weeks. By this method the student is graduated in the co-operative department in five years.

Cooperative students are now doing engineering work in all departments and also in the commerce department.

3 VICE PRESIDENTS
NAMED AT MEETING OF SAFETY COUNCIL

The Georgia Safety council, meeting Friday, elected R. O. Grier, of Georgia, and Judge George F. Gober, president of the law school of the University of Georgia, vice presidents for the state at large, new offices in the council.

O. R. Bennett, vice chairman of the Georgia public service commission, and J. P. Bodenhamer, of the Georgia securities commission, were re-elected chairman and secretary of the council. The council will meet in Atlanta in February in connection with the convention of the American Railway association.

PAVING OF FOUR STREETS APPROVED BY COUNCIL BODY

Contracts for paving four street stretches in Atlanta at a total cost of $13,427.02 were recommended Friday at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the streets committee of city council. Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, chairman, presided.

The Mendor Construction company will be given three of the four contracts if city council sanctions action of the committee. It also was given a total of 5,718 out of the total of 6,430 yards to be paved.

The following are the streets involved: Cain street from North Boulevard to North Jackson; Avalon place from Morningstar drive to McLean; Ashby place from Ashby street to Jephth street, all to the Mendor concern, and Pelham street from Griffin to Chestnut street to the C. A. Pittman company.

Y. W. C. A. TO HOLD FIRST CHILDREN'S LUNCHEON TODAY

First of a series of children's luncheons sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. will be held today at the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria, Broad and Alabama streets. The luncheons will be in charge of Mrs. A. C. Newell, chairman of the Cafeteria committee, and Mrs. Carl B. Walker, originator of the plan.

Officials announced that the children's luncheons are being instituted because of the large number of children who come downtown on Saturday morning to attend the children's matinee at the Howard theater. The luncheons will be served between 11:30 o'clock and 2:30 o'clock.

NEGRO IS KILLED IN GUN BATTLE; OFFICER MAY DIE

Birmingham, Ala., December 2.—(AP)—Marshall L. C. Bernard was probably fatally wounded late today when he and a companion officer were fired on by an unidentified negro whom they attempted to arrest in his home.

The officers returned the fire and the negro was shot to death in the exchange of shots.

Bernard was taken to a hospital with a bullet wound over his heart. Physicians said his condition was critical.

THE TECH-GEORGIA GAME.

Interest throughout the south centers today on the outcome of the football game between the teams of the University of Georgia and the Georgia School of Technology.

Both teams have had remarkable season records, with Georgia perhaps a favorite because of an unbroken series of season victories.

The Tech team has also an unbroken record of victories in the south, with the exception of the tie with Vanderbilt.

While Georgia defeated Yale, Virginia, Furman, Auburn, Tulane, Florida, Clemson, Mercer and Alabama, the Yellow Jackets defeated the V. M. I., Tulane, Alabama, North Carolina, Louisiana State, Auburn and Oglethorpe. Tech fell only before Notre Dame.

Visitors are in Atlanta by the thousands, and, circumstances considered, it is doubtful if a game of college football ever attracted so much attention before in the history of this or any other state. It is doubtful even if any annual Army-Navy classic has attracted so much intense interest between the color-bearers of rivals.

They are both wonderful teams. They are both clean, wholesome teams. They represent the best there is in high college sportsmanship.

Which will win? That is a problem. But Atlanta is betting on both, and the spirit of the occasion is not only good-natured, but enlivening and heartening. It makes one feel better, catch the step of youth and feel the thrill of old college days, to face a struggle like this.

The football championship of the south is the goal. And here we extend congratulations to the winning team.

PLANS RESEARCH FOREST.

Governor Hardman has rendered a remarkable service to forestry. He has demonstrated a far-reaching conception of new uses and values in by-products from hardwood trees growing in Georgia.

His plans are to establish a research forest of some 600 acres, to be deeded to the state from his own holdings, on which the planting and intensive study of persimmon, dogwood, honey locust, black locust, sourwood, mulberry and black walnut may be conducted, thereby giving to the world its first real opportunities to know what new food and feed values and other uses may be derived from these species.

The Georgia Forestry association, at a meeting Friday to consider the very generous and constructive proposal of the governor, passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That this state board is most highly honored by being the first forestry body to receive Governor Hardman's plans for this research work and that every effort will be made and all possible support given by the board and the Georgia forestry service for the development of this magnificent gift which our governor proposes to make to the state of Georgia; and we urge our United States senators and congressmen to work for a special appropriation from the federal congress for cooperation with Georgia in the proper development of this outstanding and most far-reaching project in the interest of science and commercial industries."

A delegation of forestry experts, headed by Bonnel H. Stone, will visit Washington at once, accompanied by the governor, for a conference with Chief Forester William B. Greeley concerning this new field of forestry research. There is no question as to the forest bureau's cooperation.

There should be no delay in taking advantage of such a great opportunity for the development of new uses from the several species which the governor has in mind for this experimental and research work. We sincerely trust, therefore, that our delegation will be able to secure a special appropriation from congress for cooperative work between the Georgia forestry service and the experiment stations of the United States forest service.

LANE YOUNG HONORED.

The members of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank are to be congratulated upon the election of H. Lane Young, vice president and executive manager of the Citizens and Southern National bank here, to a place on the directorate of that great financial institution. He succeeds Eugene R. Black, president of the Atlanta Trust company, who declined reelection.

Mr. Young is one of the outstanding bankers of the south. He is a nephew of Mills Lane, of Savannah, president of the Citizens and Southern system. Though young in years he is a veteran in experience, for he was raised in the banking business.

In addition to his connection with the Citizens and Southern bank, he is a director of the Atlanta Joint Stock Land bank, the Atlanta Title and Trust company and the Atlanta Banking and Savings company. He is a member of the agricultural bankers' association of the American Bankers' association.

WELCOME, FRATERNITY MEN.

The members of the Sigma Nu fraternity of three states are in session in Atlanta, as are also the members of the Chi Phi fraternity from the southern zone.

These delegations combine in bringing several hundred former college men to the city, practically all of whom will attend the Georgia-Tech game this afternoon.

Atlanta extends a cordial greeting to all of these fraternity men. No agencies have kept old college associates together so firmly and have linked the fellowship so bindingly as the fraternity organizations that have carried on after the college days were over.

Old and young mingle in the spirit of love and brotherhood.

The secret fraternity used to be frowned upon by some institutions, but time has developed that they have been of great practical service in cementing everlasting friendships, and in the creation of constructive group services.

Life would not be worth the living without friendships and fellowships—only service.

The only service that counts is that which is unselfish.

In that respect service is greater than love, for one can love without serving, but one cannot serve without loving.

STATUS OF POULTRY TRADE.

From a special bulletin just issued by the Blue Valley Creamery institute, of Chicago, the first ten months of 1927 show a marvelous prosperous situation as to poultry.

Prices averaged slightly lower than in the same period of 1926. While the quantity marketed increased slightly, the total value of the eggs produced and poultry raised probably was three to five per cent less than in 1926, when it reached $1,181,000,000. With that exception, however, the 1927 value probably will be the largest since 1920.

Poultry production has increased in Georgia this year at a greater ratio than ever before. Where intelligently conducted, with marketing arrangements made, poultry culture is one of the most profitable branches of the farm industry.

Income from poultry products in 1928 very probably will exceed that of 1927. That is the opinion of experts who make a specialty of studying and analyzing the production and marketing conditions.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Shaking Too.

Now that the Turkish woman has been "emancipated" how is she to be saluted by a friend who meets her in the street? Hitherto it has been the rule never to notice a woman in public. Even the former young Turks, supposed reformers as they were, ignored women. If two men met in the street, and one of them was accompanied by his wife, the other would pay no attention whatever to her, even if they stood and chatted for some time. But at the end of the meeting, as they parted, he would take leave of his friend's wife as though he had only that moment discovered her presence. Nor was this practice regarded as a slight to women or as expressing lack of respect. On the contrary, the theory was that the woman was so superior a being that a mere man was not privileged to address her. Now that the veil has been abolished and women go abroad with their faces visible, the question of salutation is more actually raised. Many are urging revival of the ancient Turkish greeting which consisted in the hand being placed over the heart and then on the forehead. But the western custom of handshaking is coming still more into favor, and the great propaganda for it is being made. Indeed, it is represented that it is not at all a mere copying of a European custom, but the revival of an ancient Turkish greeting which for centuries had fallen into disuse but which is still practiced in some remote parts of Turkey, as well as in various Central Asian countries.

Chasing Beluga.

Anyone seeking a sporting occupation might do worse than take up the chasing of the beluga, and if successful, will earn the gratitude of the French sardine-fishers. The beluga, described as a kind of small whitefish, the fishermen by breaking their nets, and though all sorts of extraordinary methods have been employed to get rid of it, they have had no success. Another method which has been utilized are harpoons, carbines and machine guns, then poisoned meat. As all failed, one high official furnished aeroplanes, bombers, and the beluga, and the fishermen more than the beluga, and this scheme had to be abandoned. Almost as a last resort, "chasers" are being equipped with cavalry lances, but it seems scarcely probable that the beluga, after defying bombs, will allow themselves to be defeated by anything so old-fashioned as lances.

Diplomatic Illness.

The aftermath of the Royal marriage in Naples is speculation regarding the last-minute failure of Cardinal Ascalesi to go to Naples to perform the ceremony of benediction, the cardinal being replaced by Mgr. Baccelli. In quarters close to the Vatican, the theory is advanced that Cardinal Ascalesi's abstention may have been due to the fact that Princess Anne of France had written a letter to the editors of the Acti on Française, the French royalist paper which is on the inside of the attack on the diplomatic illness of Cardinal Ascalesi. A slap at Mussolini by the Vatican. The pretense presence would have looked like the Holy See and the Italian State had become friends.

FAME.

Test: "The fame of Solomon concerning the name of the Lord." 1 Kings 10:1.

There is very little said in the Bible about fame, which fills so great a space in our books and in the dreams and efforts of so many lives. Too, what it says has a very different character from what these others have to say of it.

"Fame knows neither birth nor place. Time nor ancestry nor creeds; All her standards are to grace. Those who come to her with deeds."

Thus our home and fireside poet, Edgar Guest, sings of fame's unexpected origin.

Further, our poet stresses "doing" in order to gain fame, concerning with him who said, "Genius, without deeds, is a dumb oracle."

But, deeper than "doing" is that spring of all action, "being." As was said of a charming, saintly woman: "It was not so much what she did, but what she so charmingly was."

Achievement in deed is much, but attainment in character is more. Both, we should have, but to be higher than to do; good and great deeds are streams that flow from arctic fountains of being.

Youth Admits Dynamiting Plot to Kill Sweetheart

BELIEVES SHE WILL RECOVER AND MARRY HIM

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.
Ottawa, Ill., December 2.—Hiram Reed, 24, son of a wealthy Mossville, Ill., farmer, today described how he planted dynamite in a school house at Dana, Ill., with the idea of killing Miss Lola Bradford, 23, the school teacher, with whom he had been conducting a secret love affair. Miss Bradford's face, arms and chest were mangled by the explosion, which followed the explosion in the school house at Dana, Ill., on Thursday morning when she touched a match to fire wood in the house. No hope is held for her recovery.

It was an incredible story Reed told after he had been taken into custody. Refusing at first to admit he had fired the explosion in the school house, he decided to confess this morning and took an obvious pride in showing of details how he planned the deed.

The captured youth, who had been in custody all last night, he was taken to the school house early this morning. He surveyed the ruins, interior with interest and still continued to evade questions. Then suddenly he was talking with a wealth of detail of the explosion, and sometimes horrified listeners.

After making the confession Reed expressed confidence that the school teacher would recover, marry him, and live with him. He said he was planning any plans the authorities may have to punish him.

Reed was arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Koenig, of Ottawa, Ill., today and held on $45,000 bonds on three charges. The charges included assault with intent to kill, bombing of a building intended for human habitation and injuring a human being by bombing. Even if Miss Bradford should live he may be sentenced to a term aggregating 75 years in the penitentiary to State's Attorney Hanson.

Justice Koenig continued the hearing for 10 days while awaiting the outcome of the school teacher's condition. The young farmer first began to appreciate the seriousness of his position after the court hearing.

Alayne Iml, in a worst jam than I thought, he murmured as he was led back to jail.

BANQUET ATTACK COOLIDGE VISITS

BRITISH STEAMER COBANEX MITH

Honkong, December 2.—(AP)—The British steamship Siantang, whose home port is Shanghai, was attacked by bandits near Ichang on the Yangtze river, says advice received here from Hankow. Some of the crew were killed.

Captain Lator of the Siantang is being held for $100,000 ransom, the cables stated.

Captain Lator was in command of the steamship Siantang, which was on a trip to Hongkong, when it was attacked by bandits near Ichang on the Yangtze river, says advice received here from Hankow. Some of the crew were killed.

It was said at the white house that the president might not spend more than a few hours in Havana.

The fact that congress will be in session at the time, and the demands of the white house social season, it was said, have prompted the president in his decision to make a hurried trip.

The desire of Coolidge to be absent from Washington no longer than necessary is expected to prevent him from accepting any of the numerous invitations to stop over in southern cities. He will travel by special train and it is probable that no stops other than those for operational purposes will be made.

His suggestion, however, has been made to him that he travel to Key West and back to Washington from that point by different routes to afford him an opportunity to see as much of the south as possible. Since entering the white house he has not gone into that region except for occasional visits to points in nearby Virginia.

In making a trip to another country Coolidge will follow example set by his two predecessors, Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding. Wilson made two trips to Europe during peace treaty negotiations after the world war, and Mr. Harding, returning in 1923 from Asia, set foot on foreign soil in British Columbia. It will be president Coolidge's first visit to the Caribbean region.

COOLIDGE INVITED TO STOP OVER HERE.

An invitation to President Coolidge to stop over in Atlanta enroute to his winter vacation at Havana was made last night by Governor L. G. Hardman and Mayor L. N. Ragsdale.

The officials declared that Georgia and Atlanta would be honored by a visit from the chief executive of the United States, and declared they would send personal invitations to the white house today.

William Hallman, grand marshal of the party which Thursday will unveil a statue in statutory hall Washington in memory of Alexander H. Rusk, declared that Georgia and Atlanta would be honored by a visit from the chief executive of the United States, and declared they would send personal invitations to the white house today.

In the meantime, both executives will send written invitations to Mr. Coolidge to stop here enroute to Havana.

"We feel that Atlanta and Georgia would be honored by a visit from Mr. Coolidge and are sending him a personal joint invitation to stop in Atlanta enroute to Havana," they said.

"Georgia's nationally known and respected hospitality will respond to the occasion, and we will deem it a distinct privilege to entertain him."

"We shall join the governor of Georgia and the mayor of Atlanta in extending a cordial invitation to Mr. Coolidge to visit the city," Mr. Hallman said Friday night. "It would be a pleasure to entertain him here, and we are sure that he would enjoy a short stop in the southern metropolis."

DEATH BY NATURAL CAUSES IS VERDICT IN DEATH OF RICE

Montrose B. Rice, 55, of 528 Hemphill avenue, who was found dead on the sidewalk on Fifth street, near Broadway, at about 7:15 o'clock Friday morning, came to his death from natural causes, according to a coroner's verdict announced today by Coroner Paul Donohue.

Mr. Rice is survived by his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Roy Morris, Mrs. Mary Rice, Mrs. John Rice, Mrs. William Rice, and Mrs. Charles Rice.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM H. BRADY

PHYSIOLOGY VS. QUACKERY.

A few easy going old doctors, nurses, a raft of mail order charlatans and half baked nature healers find customers daily impressed when an enema or "internal bath" (as some doctors call it), or a rectal injection or a colon irrigation produces much mucus. Customers with just the right moral training consider this mucus "poison" on at least something that would probably do a great deal of harm were it not removed somehow from the body.

As a general rule the truth is that this mucus (not mucus) which the nature healers call "poison" is actually the life of the "high" (not mucus). So the favorite evidence of the enema cult doesn't make sense. It is the mucus which the enema produces.

Not quite understanding this, dash some doctors in your eye and the irritation of the mucus (not mucus) membrane lining the rectum and covering the eyeball will excite a flow of mucus (not mucus). So the favorite evidence of the enema cult doesn't make sense. It is the mucus which the enema produces.

Nurses who have received their training under the direction of medical men who are about thirty years behind the times as many of the pet doctors on hospital staffs are—still imagine there are "high" and "low" enemas, as the old fog doctors who teach them have not yet heard that the enema is actually the life of the "high" (not mucus).

X-ray pictures of the so-called rectal tube coiled up in the extreme lower portion of the canal, after an expert has inserted the tube for a "high" enema. But these modern discoveries are very troublesome and so the pet hospital doctors are still teaching behind the times as many of the pet doctors on hospital staffs are—still imagine there are "high" and "low" enemas, as the old fog doctors who teach them have not yet heard that the enema is actually the life of the "high" (not mucus).

Judging from the number of inquiries I have had from readers, there must be thousands of morbidly minded people who actually imagine a glorified enema, the crude apparatus for which purposes to be an "internal bath" is less injurious than many of the things taken in the ordinary way. The regular, daily or habitual use of rectal injection as an artificial means of evacuating the bowels is in many instances the effect is a dilation and corresponding weakening of the lower portion of the bowels, so that the dupe of the "high" enema finds himself infinitely worse off than he would have been if he had just given the bowels a little kindly neglect.

The notorious laxative marking one such case has done infinitely more harm by his unphysiological teachings than the crude invention he sells as his own—though the patent records show he didn't invent it at all.

An injection or irrigation is sometimes a necessary part of treatment. But it is never a necessary part of self-treatment, nor is it ever advisable for one to resort to such a measure except under medical care.

William A. Parker Heads Chi Phi Alumni Association

William A. Parker was chosen president of the Atlanta Alumni association of the Chi Phi fraternity at a meeting held Friday night at the Piedmont Driving Club. The business meeting, part of a two-day session of the southern conference of the fraternity, preceded a supper-dance at which several hundred Chi Phis, with their ladies, enjoyed one of the most delightful affairs of the Tech-Georgia game week-end.

Dr. Phinizy P. Calhoun was named first vice president; Rutherford Ellis, second vice president, and Ed K. Van Winkle, secretary and treasurer. The new executive committee for the association includes J. J. Ragan, chairman; Thomas W. Connolly, Joseph Boston, James Calhoun, William Foster, Winship Connolly, Albert Howell, III, Jesse Draper, Hughes Spaulding, Albert E. Thornton, Henry Grady, Frank Boland, Luther Rosser and Floyd W. McKee.

The zone conference, attended by several hundred alumni and delegates from the various southern universities and colleges with chapters of Chi Phi, opened with a luncheon Friday at the Capital City club, at which time members and officers of the Atlanta Alumni association met delegates from the graduate chapters.

Present at the luncheon were the following officers and members of the Atlanta association: J. V. Calhoun, E. K. Van Winkle, William A. Parker, John A. Hynds, Richard W. Courts, Jr., Thomas W. Connolly and D. Dunwoody.

The following delegates attended from their various chapters: University of Georgia: T. G. Black and J. E. Brown; Emory, Colin Smith and Ed Stephens; Georgia Tech, W. C. Wardlaw and E. C. Kontz; Alabama, J. C. Duckworth and Jordan Miller; Vanderbilt, W. D. Buntin and C. E. Shaver. Alternates present included W. F. Wright, Graver Smith and W. P. Harbin.

Among distinguished alumni present for the conference is Judge Peter W. Melheim, of Savannah, judge of the

SLANDER IS CHARGED TO GROVE BY NURSE

Asheville, N. C., December 2.—(AP) E. W. Grove, Jr., of St. Louis, son of the late E. W. Grove, Asheville millionaire, today was named in a $100,000 slander suit by Miss Ruby Dellinger, of Warren county, Virginia, a nurse for the elder Grove who died January 27.

The suit, filed in Buncombe superior court alleges that the younger Grove caused her to be forcibly ejected from Philadelphia by private detectives and that he circulated "false and malicious" statements accusing her of improper conduct with his father.

The nurse charges in her petition that she was shadowed by detectives employed by the younger Grove while nursing his father and relates an alleged incident in November, 1926, in Philadelphia. The elder Grove, according to the petition, was ill and went to the Bellevue-Stratford hotel in Philadelphia. Miss Dellinger was employed as a trained nurse. She took a room near Grove's and might be of assistance to him in his illness.

The younger Grove, she alleges, came to the hotel and obtained room adjoining that occupied by his father, registering under the name "McCoy" and with a detective who registered as "Nancy."

Soon afterward, she says, she was "ejected by defendant and his confederates from her bedroom," at the hotel, was accompanied to the depot by one of the confederates and forced to leave Philadelphia. She charges that young Grove then circulated a "manuscript or writing prepared by him or under his instruction pretending to be a report of what the defendant had seen while using a 'peep hole' through which his father's room was watched."

HOSPITAL STAFF DEMANDS DOCTOR BE REINSTATED

Detroit, December 2.—(AP)—In closed at abrupt suspension last night of Dr. Lee Hilman, 25, internist at Receiving hospital, the city's only emergency hospital, today presented Dr. Thomas K. Gruber, superintendent, with a signed ultimatum threatening to walk out if Hilman is not reinstated by 6 o'clock tonight.

The communication stated that the staff felt that "a gross injustice has been done Dr. Hilman."

Dr. Hilman was suspended on complaint of Mrs. Leonard Williams, with whom he had disagreed as to how long her husband should remain in the hospital and he was said to have passed the lie to her in denying her charges.

AMERICAN KIDNAPED BY MEXICANS FREED

Berkeley, Calif., December 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas W. Thompson, of Berkeley, whose husband, a mining engineer in Mexico, was kidnapped and held for ransom by Mexican bandits a week ago, received a telegram today stating that Thompson had been rescued and was safe at Panuco, state of Sinaloa, Mexico.

"Rescued today by government after being held by bandits seven days, all well," Mrs. Thompson previously today had received a message from C. H. Crawford, Thompson's partner at the silver mine in Mexico, saying her husband had been kidnapped and held in the mountains near Copala, state of Guerrero, until payment of $2,500. Crawford assured her that that sum in gold had been the bandits.

Washington officials have been active on behalf of the kidnapped Amer-

25,000 Attend First Public Display Of New Ford Automobile Here Friday

A view of the tremendous crowd which all Friday night thronged the display rooms of the local Ford plant to view the new Ford models.

First public display of the new line of Ford automobiles was made here Friday at the local Ford plant. Even more than 25,000 had visited the showrooms and learned details of the car which is to succeed the famous Model T.

Visitors to the showrooms included city officials, heads of civic, commercial and professional organizations and many prominent business men. The entire sales force of the local dealers was kept busy throughout the day and night pointing out new features of the car, which Henry Ford himself has described as being "superior in design and performance to any now available in the low price, light car class."

Even before the display rooms were opened at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning there was a line of visitors on hand to be the first to get the story of the new cars.

"On all sides throughout the day," Ford officials stated, "we heard comments of surprise at the striking change in the appearance of this new Ford line. The low, rakish lines, the striking new colors and the luxurious equipment of the new automobiles, a complete impression upon the crowds of visitors. Even more impressive to the visitors, however, were the details of performance as they were unfolded by attendants. Visitors were particularly struck with the speed, pickup and ease of handling of the new cars and with the fact that they are equipped with four-wheel brakes, shock absorbers and standard gear shift transmission of the type used in cars in a much higher price class.

"Attendees at the display rooms were overwhelmed with requests for more information on the new models, and it is expected that the demand for such demonstrations will continue for weeks to come. Ford factories at Detroit and branch plants in other sections of the country are now preparing for capacity production and it is expected that all dealers will be able to meet the demand in full within the next few weeks."

"The design of the new line is so distinctly different from that of the Model T that the Detroit factory and branch plants have had to undergo a complete equipment change to produce the new cars. It is expected, however, that the next few weeks will see former Ford production records broken."

In the meantime, Henry Ford has announced that manufacture of replacement parts for Model T Ford cars will continue to be an important part of the Ford business. It is estimated that there are still more than nine million Model T Ford cars in operation and the policy of the Ford Motor company, it is said, will be to continue supplying parts for these cars as long as there is any demand for them.

Shown in Detroit. Detroit, Mich., December 2.—(AP)—The first public showing of the new Ford car was given today in Convention hall under direction of the Detroit branch of the Ford Motor company with 56 dealers cooperating. A crowd of several hundred persons had formed in front of the hall when the doors were opened.

The exhibition will continue several days.

KEHELEY INDICTED IN LOREN'S DEATH

E. F. Keheley, Marietta street restaurant proprietor, who is said to have fired the stray bullet which snuffed out the life of Loren Leister on Halloween night, was indicted Friday afternoon by the Fulton county grand jury on a charge of murder.

The 32-year-old Leister youth died Wednesday night at Grady hospital, after a valiant fight for life for a month with a bullet in his brain. Keheley was previously indicted by the grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to murder in connection with the shooting.

Keheley told police that he had pulled his revolver during a quarrel with a friend and had fired it inadvertently, the stray bullet striking the Leister youth as he passed the restaurant with a group of boy friends on a Halloween lark.

DR. BOYNTON HEADS SAMARITAN CLINIC

The board of trustees of the Good Samaritan clinic announced the appointment of Dr. Charles E. Boynton as new medical director of the clinic to succeed Dr. Arch Elkin, retired.

Dr. Boynton is one of the leading students of children's diseases in the country and Dr. Elkin is not far behind him in his work in children's diseases.

WAREHOUSE TOBACCO FREE OF CITY TAX

Frankfort, Ky., December 2.—(AP)—Tobacco stored in the warehouse of Cooperative Growers' associations is not subject to tax by municipalities of the state, the court of appeals held today in affirming the decision of the Davies circuit court.

The Dark Tobacco Growers' association had stored in its warehouse at Owensboro, Ky., tobacco valued at $250,000. The city of Owensboro attempted to levy a tax on the tobacco for municipal purposes. The Davies circuit court ruled such a tax is illegal under the provision of section 4, chapter 116 of the acts of 1924, and the court of appeals upheld the constitutionality of this state, which provides the general assembly shall have power to determine what property shall be subjected to local taxation.

SIX FIRMS MAINTAIN 16-CENT GAS PRICE

Despite persistent rumors of a general advance of gasoline prices, six associated companies here Friday continued to dispense the commodity at the 16-cent level, while officials were unanimous Friday night in announcing that no instructions for a price increase had been received.

Filling stations of two independent companies, at which prices were boosted from 16 to 19 cents on Thursday morning, continued retailing gasoline for 19 cents throughout Friday.

The Gulf Refining, Texas Oil, Pan-American Petroleum, Wofford Oil, Standard Oil and Sinclair Oil companies on Friday wholesaled gasoline for 14 cents and retailed it for 16 cents.

Prince Prefers Charging Lions To Quiet Crowd

Prince William of Sweden is a good speaker, but he is more at home facing a charging lion of the Africanveld than he is facing hundreds of pairs of eyes from an American audience. That is the conclusion of the reviewer of the Dallas Morning News.

In his story after the European season of royalty had delivered his famous lecture on African big game hunting in the Texas city.

Atlanta will decide whether or not the Texan is right on Tuesday night, when the prince gives the same lecture at the city auditorium. He will reach Atlanta Monday night or early Tuesday morning and, if he has his own way, stay in comparative retirement at his hotel suite or on the golf links. He is reported to be rather an effective amateur golfer, although his secretary wrote to Russell Hedges, president of the Southern Musical bureau, on Friday, stating that the prince was off his game owing to a lame arm received a couple of weeks ago while trying to beat Douglas Fairbanks at tennis.

"His action was clear," writes the Dallas reviewer, "although it greeted Texas ears rather strangely because of emphasis placed at unusual points in the lecture. His tall, slim figure, sometimes he placed his long, bony hands into his dinner jacket, sometimes he inspected his nails as he drewled forth his periods. As he talked he swayed slightly, back and forth. His lean face, his raw-boned form made a comparison to Lincoln inevitable."

"This prince seemed to welcome the shielding darkness when the lights flickered off preparatory to showing the film of his hunting experiences. His voice grew louder as with renewed confidence, and the prince shown in the pictures, facing a charging lion, seemed infinitely more comfortable than the figure facing the hundreds of pairs of curious eyes."

"The pictures are excellent. They have caught the animals in poses as natural as those a hidden camera would reveal of a man in the privacy of his home. And when the animals found it out they resented it as strongly as would the man. Lions, elephants and buffalo are shown charged forth in a few feet of the camera, until stopped by a bullet."

Special amplifiers have been placed in the auditorium to assure perfect hearing for the entire audience next Tuesday night. Tickets are now on sale at the Cable Piano company, North Broad street, where many reservations have already been made, both by Atlantans and by the thousands of visitors here for the week-end to witness the football game this afternoon.

GENOA-BUENOS AIRES FLIGHT IS PLANNED

Genoa, Italy, December 2.—(AP)—A flight from Genoa to Buenos Aires will be attempted early in January in an Italian plane by Captain Eduardo Olivero, Argentine aviator, he announced today on departing from the steamship Gloria.

Captain Olivero last year made a flight from New York to Buenos Aires.

GOVERNOR TO ADDRESS FIRST CHRISTIAN CLASS

The men's class of the First Christian church, E. E. Maffett, president; J. R. Sturges, treasurer, will have Governor L. G. Hardman as its honor guest and speaker Sunday morning at 9:30 at the culmination of a successful attendance campaign. All the adults and young people's classes will join the men's class in the service. Dr. Elzie B. Thomas will assemble the whole school including all the boys and girls to greet the governor at 10:30.

If Alertox Fails In Colds and Flu Call In a Doctor

Here is the greatest medical find of the age, a preparation that, in from 30 to 60 minutes thoroughly cleanses the system of poison, bile and acids, thus throwing off the cold, through the intestinal tract.

You begin to feel better after the first dose, and it is only a matter of a few hours when that disagreeable nasal discharge is checked; that creepy, chilly feeling gone and your aches and pains disappear.

Under the Alertox treatment colds rarely hang on over 24 hours and often disappear in half that time. Get a bottle from your druggist and if you are not satisfied after taking one dose get your money back. If your druggist cannot supply Alertox, send direct by Crestal Carbolic Laboratories, Dept. 18, Atlanta, Ga., upon receipt of price, 60c—(adv.)

U.S. Artist Comes Home To Finish Il Duce's Picture

New York, December 2.—(United News)—Howard Chandler Christy, American painter, came home from Europe tonight to complete his portrait of Premier Mussolini of Italy. Christy, accompanied by Mrs. Christy, arrived aboard the S. S. Conte Rosso. He was enthusiastic about the Italian premier.

"Mussolini is the kind of man that puts you up when you are tired," the painter said. "His energy is dynamic and also epidemic. He is quiet and soft spoken but he makes you forget your troubles."

Mrs. Christy said she had been intrigued by Mussolini's ability as a violinist.

"He's wonderful," she said. "The Christys were with the premier at the palace, at the foreign office and at his home. He sat for his portrait at all three places."

"When Mussolini saw the painting I had made of him he made this remark," Christy said:

"Well, you are the only man who ever painted my energy."

Christy also made paintings of the crown prince of Italy, who hummed "Swanee River" while sitting for his portrait of Phillips of Hesse, a relative of the former German kaiser, and of the Countess de Frasso, formerly Dorothy Taylor, of New York. He will complete the paintings in his studio here and then return to Italy to deliver them to their owners.

FRASER TO PREACH AT BOTH SERVICES

The Rev. B. F. Fraser, pastor of St. Paul Methodist church, will deliver both sermons at the church auditorium Sunday, beginning at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 8:30 o'clock at night. "The Long Distance Disciple" is the topic for the morning address. Special music and an evangelistic sermon will feature the day night service. Epworth league will begin at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night; Sunday school at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning; prayer meeting at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The church is located at Grant and St. Paul streets.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS OPEN MEET HERE

With more than 200 delegates in attendance, the Friday night session of the annual meeting of the Georgia department of school superintendents was held at the Henry Grady hotel, featured by an address "Carrying Out Curriculum Revision," by Dr. Shelton Phelps, of Georgia Peabody School for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

The final session of the meeting will be held this morning for the election of officers and the selection of next year's meeting place. An address by Dr. W. T. Smaller, of Mercer university, is the only speech slated for the morning program.

Dr. Phelps is one of the foremost educators in the country, and who recently has been conducting a survey of the needs of Mercer university, Marion, Ga.

Dr. Phelps was the principal speaker in a discussion centering about the question of curriculum revision in the primary and intermediate schools, toward which there is a nation-wide movement, it was pointed out Friday night.

Delegates at the Friday morning session were entertained at a luncheon at the Fulton high school on invitation of Jere Wells, superintendent of the Fulton county school system.

Speakers at the morning session were Supervisor J. O. Martin, of the state department of education; Superintendent T. M. Purcell, of the Cochran school system; Superintendent J. Allman, of Dalton; Katherine Dozier, of New Holland; S. D. Cape, of Augusta, and Superintendent N. E. Ware, of Columbia county.

The afternoon session was featured by addresses by Superintendent T. J. Lance, of Waynesboro, and Professor J. W. Griffith, of the Thirty-Fifth Street Junior High school, Savannah, Georgia.

Distinguished visitors attending the annual meeting are Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools; M. L. Duggan, state school superintendent; Kyle T. Alfriend, secretary of the Georgia Education association, and Jere A. Wells.

CHRISTMAS MAILED CONFERENCE HELD

The part to be played by the United States mails this Christmas in aiding and abetting Santa Claus in his work was discussed Friday afternoon by railway mail officials at a meeting at the federal building, A. A. Fisher, of Washington, general superintendent of the railway mails, attended the conference.

Superintendent C. G. Goodloe, in charge of the railway mails in the Atlanta district, was in charge of the conference. Matters discussed included the necessity of placing additional mail cars in service for the Christmas rush, hiring additional help, and generally speeding the Christmas mails. Chief clerks of the railway mail service from adjoining districts also attended the conference.

Arrangements already made by E. K. Large, postmaster, for the handling of Christmas mail in the local postoffice include the hiring of 200 additional employees who will begin work about December 15 and continue until after the rush. The Christmas mail has already started to pour into the local postoffice in considerable volume, but so far is being moved without any difficulty. Mr. Large said Friday that it is important that those who have packages to reach their destinations in time for Christmas should mail early, with special attention to giving the complete correct address of the recipient.

COMMUNIST REGIME REVIEWED IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Russia, December 2.—(AP)—The fifteenth congress of the communist party met today at the Kremlin to take account of the party's ten-year-away over Russia and to deliberate on future policies.

Despite the most desperate efforts of Leon Trotsky to wrest leadership from the dominant powers, despite his brilliant oratory and race versatility, the figure of Joseph Stalin, party secretary, loomed tonight more powerful than ever. He was master of the situation. The opposition led by Trotsky could not match Stalin in his deliberate steering of the party craft through hattering seas.

The oppositionist leadership appears to be in the disadvantageous position of being forced either to sue for peace and be admitted to fellowship on the condition of complete submission to the Stalin group or face their adversaries in a purely oral battle with no force behind them to sustain their challenge.

As things stand, the door of the communist party is still open to the oppositionists, but they can reenter only on condition that they submit to the discipline and control of the party on the same basis as other members. Attempts to reenter the party as a distinct group seemed futile.

THREE SLIGHTLY HURT AS TRUCKS COLLIDE

Collision early Friday night between two motor trucks at Lee and Dimmock streets caused slight injuries to W. C. J. H. and J. E. Bell, of R. F. D. No. 1, when the vehicle driven by J. T. Bell figured in an accident with a truck driven by a negro, Ludy Blasingsale. W. C. Bell was treated at Grady hospital. Patrolmen Olin Williams and J. H. Morris investigated the accident.

John W. Jackson, 60, Cartersville, Ga., and Miss Adelle Stephens, 29, Washington state, were treated Friday night at Grady hospital for injuries received when they were struck down by a truck. They gave doctors no details and police have no report of the accident.

Erlanger.

“Broadway,” the thrilling drama of the cabaret, which is current at the beautiful Erlanger theater, where it will have two showings today, at 2:30 and 8:30 o’clock, bounded into an immediate hit on the date of its opening at the Broadhurst theater in New York, September 10, 1926. The play is at once grim and gay, comic and tragic, sophisticated and naive. It is really the best show seen here in years, and the company presenting it could hardly be improved upon.

Capitol.

“A Man’s Past,” acclaimed by audiences as the finest screen entertainment of the week in Atlanta, closes today at the Capitol theater, along with a big bill of five Pantages acts. “A Man’s Past” is a really dramatic and gripping vehicle pre-

DALLIS IS NEW PRESIDENT OF GEORGIA ALUMNI BODY

Election of officers, an elaborate banquet during which music was furnished by the Bulldog orchestra and the Georgia quartet, followed by a reception, was the feature of the meeting of the Atlanta Georgia

Alumni association, Friday night at the Biltmore hotel.

Ernest E. Dallis, president of

Johnson-Dallis company, advertising agency, was elected president to succeed Harold Hirsch, other officers named by the nominating committee and unanimously elected were: G. T.

Singleton, vice president, and Henry

Smith, secretary and treasurer.

The dinner began promptly in order that the alumni might attend the performance of the Atlanta Dramatic club of the institution at the Atlanta

Woman’s club, at 8:30 o’clock. The club presented “The Old South,” a club Marquis comedy.

President Hirsch acted as master of ceremonies and after the dinner introduced several distinguished visitors and football experts who were honored guests.

Lawrence Perry, famous sports writer of the Consolidated Press association, was the first speaker. He praised the chivalry and true southern sportsmanship of the Georgia

University of Georgia team and declared that the state was in the eyes of the nation for the football classic.

Georgia has now come into its own, he declared.

Captain “Biff” Jones, road coach of the famous Army team that triumphed over the Navy and Notre Dame at the national championship game, was the next speaker and praised the “Battalion of Death,” declaring that the Georgia team had done something that the Army could not do.

Brock speaks briefly.

Dr. W. H. Brock, of the University of Georgia faculty, spoke briefly on the fundamental characteristics of Georgia and Georgians and attributed the success of the state and the university to the Georgia spirit.

Georgia's Red and Black Banners To Vie With Tech's Gold, White

"Glory, Glory to Old Georgia," will issue from the throats of hundreds of University of Georgia students today, while an equal number of Tech students will sing "The Georgia Tech Song." The red and black banners will vie with those of gold and white. For the day has dawned when these two eminent southern institutions will meet in the gridiron classic of the year, and the loyal sons of Georgia are gathering from far and near to rival in numbers and enthusiasm the hordes of faithful Tech supporters.

Parties galore have been planned for the visitors throughout the city over the weekend. Breakfasts and luncheons assembling congenial groups of friends before the game will be followed afterwards by teas at the hotel and fraternity houses and numerous teas at the city's hospitable homes. In the evening society will repair to the various clubs for dinner and dancing, and a number of formal and informal dinners will revolve around the visitors.

Among those who will be hosts at breakfast parties are Lieutenant and Mrs. William Saffarans, who will honor Miss Louise Stubbs, a popular bride-elect, and Miss Anne Spalding, who will entertain complimenting her guest, Miss Louise Bell, of Nashville.

The Atlanta homes to be the scenes of lovely teas or where the hospitable owners will keep "open house" are those of Mr. and Mrs. Cobb Dulaney, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Perry, Mr. and Mrs. James Becker, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Nicolson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dissanway, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Philip L'Engle and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cockrell. Among the hosts at dinner and evening parties are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Black, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodruff, the Sigma Nu alumni, Jack Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Rambo.

Manston Wesley Bible Class Holds Meeting.

Manston Wesley Bible class met at the home of Mrs. B. M. Farmer, 307 Atwood street, Thursday afternoon with Mrs. G. C. Collier as joint hostess. Mrs. Collier, president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Beulah Manston, teacher, opened the meeting with prayer.

The guests participated in two unique contests and prizes were won by Mrs. H. W. Ferguson, Mrs. C. T. Johnson and Mrs. A. J. McCall. Tea was served by the hostesses.

Among those present were: Mesdames A. J. Bellah, Charles Hughes, L. R. Winslett, J. H. Gideon, T. J. Kalamas, W. E. Cough, J. R. Johnson, R. M. Collins, W. R. Cough, T. J. Kilgore, T. A. R. Bryan, E. L. McCrory, J. A. O'Neil, Beulah Manston, B. M. Farmer, G. C. Collier.

History Study Club Holds Interesting Meet.

The History Study club met with Mrs. H. R. McCready at her home on Forrest avenue Thursday. "The Life of Napoleon" was the subject for the day. After the business meeting tea was served. Mrs. McCready was assisted in entertaining by Miss Johnson. The club meets December 15 with Mrs. L. A. Moser.

Queen Esther O. E. S. Presents Pageant.

Queen Esther chapter, No. 202, O. E. S., portrayed the lesson of Esther in pageant form Wednesday evening in the chapter room on the third floor of the wigwam on Central avenue before a large and representative assembly. The cast included all members of the chapter.

Many distinguished visitors from the state were present: John G. Valentine, past grand patron, of Waycross; A. C. Durden, grand patron, of Macon; William McLane, past grand patron, of Decatur; W. M. Sapp, past grand patron, of Dalton; G. T. Waldron, grand sentinel, of Griffin; Mrs. Ida Cole, grand duchess, of Rome; Mrs. Fannie May Dabney, past grand matron, of Conyers; Mrs. Marie Blanford Delgar is worthy matron of this active and interesting chapter and Mrs. L. A marriage of cordial interest to a host of friends was that of Miss Doris Coursey and Carl H. Zude, which was quietly solemnized Wednesday evening, November 30, at the home of Rev. R. C. Huston on Westminster drive. The bride's beauty of the bride was enhanced by her costume of tan satin, modishly trimmed with a rhinestone ornament and she wore a corsage of Pernet roses and valley blue. The bride's only attendant was Miss Dorothy Coursey, her twin sister, and Ernest Robertson acted as best man. After the ceremony the wedding party was entertained at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Robertson, on Druid circle.

Mr. and Mrs. Zude left Thursday for Johnson City, Tenn., where they will make their home.

Mrs. Hall Jarman and small son, Robert Hall, of Baxley, and Miss Louella Beckham, of Perry, were recent guests of Mrs. J. L. Brooks at her home on Springdale road.

Mrs. Carter Helm Jones, who has been the guest of Mrs. Lewis Jefferson Moorman in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, returned home Friday.

Harry Hardy and Warren Irwin, of Charlotte, N. C., will arrive Saturday morning to attend the Tech-Georgia football game.

Miss Helen Flannery, of Columbus, Ga., arrived Saturday to spend the week-end with Mrs. Louis Morrison on East Seventh street.

A delightful affair of the week-end was the tea at which Miss Zadie Amerine entertained Friday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Amerine, on Peachtree street, honoring Mrs. Alexander McLanahan, of New York, who will be remembered to a host of friends as Miss Frances Curry, daughter of Mrs. Fort Land, of this city. The home was artistically decorated in a handsome patch-work lace cover. Miss Amerine was assisted in entertaining her mother and Mrs. James Spras. Mrs. Franklyn Davis poured tea.

Miss Amerine received her guests in a honey beige Mayer model of satin made along straight lines. Mrs. Amerine wore a black satin gown artistically trimmed in cream lace.

Mrs. McLanahan is being delightfully entertained while the guest of her mother. Monday she plans to visit friends in Macon after which she will return to her home in New York.

Mrs. Boykin Honors Misses Brumby and Boyd.
Mrs. Harnold Boykin was hostess at luncheon Friday at the Piedmont Driving club, complimenting Miss Mary Louise Brumby and Miss Catherine Boyd, two charming members of the debutante club.

Guests included Misses Brumby, Boyd, Anne Spaulding, Mary Matheson, Mary Armstrong, Frances Floyd, Mary Ida Pierce, Virginia A. Courts, Edna Belle Raine, Mary Harvey, Mary Wellborn, Mesdames Carter Woolford and Edgar Dunlap.

I Have Said in My Heart

BY IDAH MCGLOTH GIBSON,
COWARDICE

"All men are cowards," bitterly affirmed a woman who had recently been embroiled in a matrimonial tangle. It was the legitimacy of her child, whom her husband proclaimed did not belong to him.

Not all men are cowards. Indeed, few men are physical cowards, but I will venture to affirm that if a hundred women picked at random were asked the question 95 out of 100 would say that more men were moral cowards.

The greatest moral coward in the world makes a fetish of convention. He keeps the laws of society, even if he is prone to fracture the laws of God.

A man will enter into an illicit love affair; he will tell the trusting woman: "I love you so much that the world means nothing to me without you."

"You are the only person who understands me."

"My wife is a good woman, but we have nothing in common." But he does not say that. "Beside my reputation you will mean nothing, my dear, so remember, we must not be found out."

The woman who gives her soul into the keeping of any man who makes such promises must realize that he probably will lay upon the altar of their love everything but his reputation. Then, even if his wife does not understand him, even if he gets no sympathy from the woman he married and who perhaps is as greatly involved with him as he is with her, he will accept friend wife and respectability instead of "the light that was never on land and sea" and ostracism from the company of his kind. Once in a while a man will stand the gaff, but so seldom that he can be noted as the exception that proves the rule.

And the man that gets found out. What does he do? He first says, "The woman tempted me."

Women, as a rule, face the music, even if necessary, with their backs against the wall, and smile at the mud and stone slinger. A woman will fling everything away if she can keep the man she loves. A man will throw away the woman he loves if he cannot keep the things that his friends treasure—reputation, the respect of his fellows and the friendship of his chums.

Memo: Courage used to be considered a manly trait, but today he has no patent on moral courage, neither has he a monopoly on physical courage.

Music Club Presents Eminent Baritone.

Louis Graveure, the international song favorite will appear in concert at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the auditorium of the Atlanta Music club, Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, president.

A program of unconventional selection and a wide variety of sharply contrasted moods will be offered by Mr. Graveure. The program will feature German, Old English, French, English and American songs, from the 12th through to the 17th centuries and the present day. Bryceson Terrence, pianist-accompanist, will play a piano, group, which will include Granger's "Spoon River."

Club members holding the gray card used for the morning musicals and the "forum series" are entitled to use the same card for the concert tonight. The membership card is transferable. Single tickets may be procured at the door.

CITY AND COUNTY EMPLOYEES HOLD SMOKER TONIGHT

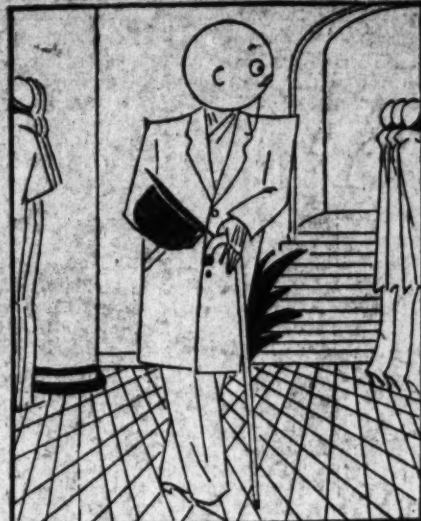

City and County Public Service Employees' union, local No. 17212, will hold an open meeting and smoker at 8 o'clock tonight at the Labor temple, 112 Trinity avenue.

Several prominent city and county officials have been extended special invitations to be honor guests of the local and will deliver brief talks to the members. Among those who are expected to speak are Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the Fulton commission; John A. Boykin, solicitor general of Fulton county; J. N. Ragsdale, mayor of the city of Atlanta, and J. Sid Tiller, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

The organization has a membership of several hundred city and county employees and has made rapid progress since its organization about five years ago.

The committee on entertainment, which has completed all arrangements for the smoker, consists of Fred K. Stephens, Louis P. Marquardt and T. C. Roberts.

THE CONNOISSEUR

Mr. Van de View, who prides himself on keeping up to date. Knows that college girls can keep him in that very pleasing state. So when they're home on Saturdays, he makes it his affair. To find where they are going and to follow everywhere.

He likes to think that he can keep the most collegiate paces. He loves to see their clothes and to admire their pretty faces. A freshman, for example, in a printed velvet frock. Is a sight that's worth a dozen shares of estimable stock.

And typical, he thinks, of this vivacious generation, is a little flowered woolen—a design of animation. We can see it in the classroom and on the campus, too. Appropriate for everything that college girls will do.

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Whiteheads.
M. has little, hard, whitish pimples on her face which seem to get worse in spite of anything she can do for them. They seem to be like blackheads, but have no black spots.

From your description, M., I judge that the little pimples are what are known as milium, or in the term in common usage, whiteheads. They really are the same as blackheads; that is, they are composed of the secretions of the sebaceous or oil glands of the skin, but because the glands have no outlet but are covered with the outer layer of skin, they cannot be squeezed out as can blackheads. Nor do they accumulate dust; therefore they are white. It is not known why these little glands should have no outlet, probably it is in the nature of a little birthmark.

There is no relief for Milium except to prick the skin over them (after they have been washed thoroughly with soap and water) with a sterilized needle and then gently squeeze out the hardened oil or sebum. (You can sterilize the needle by running it through a flame two or three times quickly.)

Perhaps the X-rays might prevent their formation, but they would have to be given by a dermatologist (skin specialist), who has an expert knowledge of the handling of them, and who knows their dangers. X-rays in the hands of any but qualified operators have been responsible for very great damage to the face.

If you do not know of any skin specialists in your locality, ring up your county medical society and ask for a list.

Diabetes.
Mr. G.—If you are a diabetic, you should be under the care of a specialist, and not be trying to manage your own case.

No, it is not necessary to use special diabetic foods. Many physicians teach their patients to make up their diets now from ordinary foods. However, the use of some of the special diabetic foods permits the diet to be a little larger.

We have a list of books written for the layman by specialists on the subject of diabetes, which you may have by sending a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. I think it would be wise for you to have one of these books. I have also included with this list a list of the firms manufacturing diabetic foods.

Varicose veins.
"Some time ago I wrote to you about varicose veins. You wrote an article in which you said that if they were very bad the only thing to do was to have an operation and have them out. Mine were very bad and so I had the operation. I want you to know that it has been very successful, and I have been very much better since. I write to thank you for the article which induced me to do this."

Those of you who are suffering from such bad varicose veins that they resist all general local treatment will be interested in J. J. letter. If the veins are not bad, local treatment combined with general hygienic care will be helpful.

We have an article on the subject which those of you who are interested may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Thank you, J., for letting us know of your good results.

Address your queries with stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Constitution's Patterns

A POPULAR TWO-PIECE MODEL
5965. Velvet, satin or moire would be very appropriate for this design. The skirt is mounted on an underbody.

This pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 40-inch size will require 1-1/4 yards of 32-inch lining for the underbody and 3-3/4 yards of 40-inch material for blouse and skirt, together with 3-5/8 yard of contrasting material for facing on collar, cuffs and belt. The width of the skirt at the lower edge with plaits extended is 1-1/2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A PRETTY SCHOOL FROCK.
5983. Wool crepe, serge or cashmere as well as wash materials may be used for this design.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 10-year size will require 2-3/8 yards of 36-inch material together with 1-1/4 yard of contrasting material for facing on collar, cuffs and belt.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1927-1928 book of fashions.

TWO HELD FOR U. S.

ON LIQUOR CHARGES

James W. Day, of Milton county, was held for the federal grand jury under $500 bond Friday by United States Commissioner J. S. Ledbetter on charges of manufacturing whisky. He waived preliminary trial.

A Billups, negro, was held under $200 bond for possessing a small quantity of liquor. Billups told Judge Ledbetter that the liquor was being saved up for Christmas.

Moore-Graydon Wedding Plans Are of Widespread Interest

Cordial interest centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Annette Lucille Moore to Stanford Worthington Graydon, whose marriage will be an interesting event of December 20, taking place at 8:15 o'clock in the evening at the St. John Methodist church, with the Rev. L. Twigg, presiding elder of the Griffin district, officiating. A special musical program arranged by Miss Emilie Pappalardo, organist of the church, will be rendered at 7:45 o'clock. The vocal soloists will be Mrs. Ermine Everett and Marvin Bosworth.

Miss Moore will be given in marriage by her father, Thomas Arthur Moore. Walter K. Graydon, brother of the groom-elect, will be best man.

Mrs. J. E. Moore, cousin of the bride-elect, will be matron of honor and Miss Eloise Byrd, of Spartanburg, S. C., another cousin of the bride-elect, will act as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Axille Fry, Miss Glenna Roper, Miss Helen Moore and Miss Louise Finch. The junior bridesmaids will be Miss Frances Lucille Woodall, cousin of the bride-elect, and Miss Mildred Ogilvie, D. Cooper Jr., left, D. I. Barron, Lonnie Moore, Parker Freeman and Landrum Finch will be groomsmen, also acting as ushers. Miss Alice Irene Barron, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Barron, will be the flower girl. Master Asa Edward Vinson, young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vinson, will act as ring-bearer.

An informal reception at the home of the bride-elect's parents will immediately follow the wedding ceremony. After a short wedding trip the young couple will make their home in Monroe, Ga., where Mr. Graydon is professor of mathematics and science at the Fifth District A. and M. school.

HELPS TO HEALTH Fresh Air—Good Food—Cardui

MRS. C. C.
FARRAGUT,
Pass
Christian,
Miss.

"I WAS very weak and run-down," says Mrs. C. C. Farragut, of Pass Christian, Miss. "I was so tired I didn't feel like doing my work or looking after my baby. When I would stoop over, my head would feel so heavy and everything looked black. I decided it was weakness and that I needed a builder. When I was just a girl, my mother gave me a bottle of Cardui, and I remembered how much good it did me, so I sent for a bottle and began taking it again. I knew after a few days it was helping me, for I ate more and enjoyed my food. I kept on and it surely did strengthen me."

MRS. G. C. BURNS,
Buna, Texas.

"I FIRST took Cardui twelve years ago," says Mrs. G. C. Burns, of Buna, Texas. "My health was poor, and it seemed as if I had no strength. The least effort tired me. I struggled along, but never felt well. One day my mother suggested that I take Cardui, and so I did. I was soon feeling much better. My improvement was a surprise to my family and a delight to me. I kept on taking the medicine until I was quite well. I slept fine and gained in weight."

MRS. MINNIE ROCHER,
Lynn Haven, Fla.

"I HAVE taken Cardui, and have found it a very helpful medicine," says Mrs. Minnie Rocher, of Lynn Haven, Fla. "After I took a course of Cardui, I felt like I had been made over into a new woman. For a while I suffered with bad pains in my back and sides. At times these would distress me so I would be almost past going. We had known of Cardui in our family for a long time, so I thought I would try taking it. I soon began to improve. I grew strong and well, and was able to resume my household duties without the least inconvenience. Good health is a thing to be prized and cared for. Since my first experience with Cardui, I have occasionally taken a bottle of Cardui as a tonic, and in a short while recovered my usual good health. Cardui is a fine medicine and I do not hesitate to recommend it."

Waynesboro Set for Field Trials

Jones To Make Final Decision At Yale Rally

New York, December 2.—(United News.)—The annual "win-loss-or-draw" football rally of the Yale Club of Montclair, N. J., will be held Saturday night at Nick Roberts old Yale barn.

The Yale football team, Coach T. A. D. Jones and his assistants, Marvin A. Stevens, Charles A. Comerford, Major Pritchard and Winslow M. Lovejoy, will be house guests.

Tad Jones' final announcement as to whether he will accede to the requests of Yale alumni and continue as head coach of the Yale football team will be made at the celebration. If Tad cannot be induced to reconsider his resignation, members of the Montclair club believe that the new coach will be chosen from the present coaching staff, all of whom will attend the rally.

Among the other features will be the presentation of the Montclair Yale bowl to Major General Preston Brown, Yale 1892. The historic trophy is presented annually "to a distinguished Yale alumnus who has won his Y in life."

The Montclair club recently started a campaign for the retention of Tad Jones as head coach at Yale. A resolution drafted by the executive committee of the club, in which the present coaching regime was highly commended, will come before the meeting. Yale clubs in various parts of the country have expressed their attitude over the suggestions that Yale adopt a volunteer system of coaching.

Howe Is Elected Princeton Leader

Princeton, N. J., December 2.—(United News.)—Charles H. Howe of Beaver Falls, Pa., was elected captain of the Princeton football team for 1928 at a meeting of the lettermen today. Howe played center this year, and was captain of the freshman team two years ago.

Twenty-two varsity letters were awarded. Daniel O'Day, of Rye, N. Y., was named varsity manager for 1928 and John H. Brooks, Jr., of Scranton, Pa., was named assistant manager.

Athens Becomes Deserted City As Crowds Leave

Athens, Ga., December 2.—(AP.)—This city began moving on Atlanta today with the prospect that a mere "corporals guard" would be left tomorrow to keep the wheels of business turning while the majority watched the Bulldogs of Georgia clash on the gridiron with Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado.

Full police and fire protection promised to be about the only full force measure left in the city tomorrow. Office buildings were being emptied and the "Gone With Monday" sign figuratively set up over hundreds of doors, while one or two inmates of the largest buildings promised to stay behind and guard the city walls.

Every mode of conveyance took the pilgrims to Atlanta. From the wealthy in their luxurious automobiles and Pullman cars to the lowly red-capped freshman, his monthly allowance exhausted, swinging freight trains, hailing rides from passing motorists, or walking through the dust—they turned Atlanta-ward in a steady stream.

Tomorrow morning will find the heaviest evacuation since special railway trains will convey thousands, and available automobiles and busses will take care of the overflow.

Looking forward to the gala event, days in advance, one firm sent an employee to the Alabama game in Birmingham with the stipulation that he could have to stay behind tomorrow and keep the place going until the rest of the firm returned.

Saturday shoppers from the countryside will find the stores open about as usual, but they may wonder at the far-away look in the shopkeepers' eyes as he keeps himself taut for some word from the Atlanta fray.

As for the university campus, it will be deserted. Those students without funds to make the trip will make it somehow anyway. If he fails to find a "bond issue," one always can walk.

GATORS CLOSE SEASON TODAY WITH LINERS

Jacksonville, Fla., December 2.—(AP.)—Maryland, making her first trip to the uttermost reaches of Dixie, tomorrow at the Jacksonville municipal stadium tackles the Florida Gators in the closing game of the 1927 season.

Adding a tone of officialdom to the affair, Governor J. W. Martin, of Florida, will be the honor guest. Members of the executive staff will be present as will other state officials, including President A. A. Murphy, of the state university.

The Maryland squad reached Jacksonville early today. No workout was staged, the boys making a trip to St. Augustine, Florida's outfit comes from Gainesville early tomorrow.

The probable lineup:

MD.	JOS.	FLA.
Dodson	Stanley
Zulick	Clemens
Wondrack	Allen
Bafford	Kirschner
Crothers	Reeves
Ahms	Bryan
Heagy	Vansickle
Kessler	Crabtree
Thomas	Brumbaugh
Snyder	Bishop
Kessler	Middlekauff

Officials: Ernie Quigley (Kansas), referee; Branch Bocock (Georgetown), umpire; Jim Perry (Swanee), head line-man; E. Foster (William and Mary), field judge.

Large Crowds Are Expected For Classic

Newsreel Representatives to Film Event—Trials Start Monday.

Waynesboro, Ga., December 2.—Many newsreel representatives will be on hand to give the world the news of the big field trials that begin here Monday, December 5.

The people who attend the picture theaters will have the privilege of seeing the finest dogs in America in their most handsome poses and readers of the big dailies in the south will also have the privilege of reading the news. The fine points of this fascinating sport will be given many readers in the American Field by the foremost critic of field trial days, Mr. Hochwald.

One point about this sport that is different from the others is that you cannot figure the winner in advance. There may be any sort of new entrants into the game; the dogs that were not mentioned last year may win all the trophies this year. But the old-timers like Charley Jordan, Ty Cobb, J. K. Ottley will be on hand and that they will have good dogs is not open to question.

Gallery Growing. The gallery is getting larger each year. The local interest is growing. Not many years ago some of the Waynesboro citizens thought that it was an outside sport, but as soon as they began following the dogs they changed their minds. There are many enthusiastic backers of the Georgia Field Trials association in this city and many of them will at one time or other take a day off during the week and follow the "aristocratic dogs of the field trials."

Some member of the association this year is going to carry home to his wife the prettiest trophy that has ever been carried away from a field trials event. This cup is known as the "Sim Bell" cup given by the citizens of Waynesboro. The judges will award this cup to the dog that does the best work in the all-age member class. It is a cup worth going across the continent to win and as soon as the members put their eyes on it they will figure on carrying it back home with them. But this is just one of the trophies—the whole lobby of the Anthony Wayne hotel here is filled with them. In addition to these something like two thousand dollars in actual cash money will be given as purses to the winners.

Entertainment. The Waynesboro Exchange club, one of Waynesboro's new civic organizations, will this year entertain the visitors at a banquet at the Anthony Wayne hotel on Wednesday evening. An old-time Burke barbecue will be given the members on the first day of the trials at Sim Bell's place on the field by Mr. Bell who is the president of the association. The social features of the sport are very attractive and the barbecue after a hard day's ride on an army horse or a Burke county mule, is not to be despised.

Peg Taylor Wins Over Smart Field

New York, December 2.—(AP.)—Peggy Taylor triumphed over a smart field of two-year-olds today in romping away with the fourth race at Jafferson Park, a $1,000 claiming stake over the six furlong route. Colonel Campus trailed by three lengths to take the place while Miss Hogan finished third. The time was 1:17.

It's alright to sit out in this weather if you're well wrapped—

Get a Muse Overcoat first thing this morning—and a Muse steamer rug to tuck over your knees and around your feet—

If it's raining—get a Muse slicker to wear over your overcoat—these slickers are waterproof, you can sit through a complete downpour without a drop of rain getting through to you—

Wear wool sox; and dry DOUBLED-SOLED new Muse shoes—(top style of the times!)

Do all this and you are as well protected, (though in those exposed stands) as you'd be at home—

Race into Muse's right now and protect yourself. You'll be snug inside, and STYLE-RIGHT BEFORE 'EM ALL!

- Burberry (London) Overcoats ... $85
- Hickey-Freeman Overcoats, $60 to $125
- Muse's Slickers ... $6 and $8.50
- Muse Shoes ... $6, $8, $10 to $14
- Muse's Wool Sox ... 75c up
- Muse's Steamer Rugs ... $20 and $30

Muse's smart Steamer rugs, to tuck over your knees, $20 and $30. Solid wool—imported from Scotland—bright & extremely smart.

Muse's main store—seven stories—is at Peachtree, Walton and Broad. And there are lively Muse Shops in Hotels Henry Grady and Biltmore. Prices are the same as at the main store. The shops are convenient "Muse miniatures" that you'll like immensely.

DANIEL'S—Open 'til 9 o'clock tonight for your convenience

It won't be long now!

Keyed to the highest pitch—everybody's on edge—waiting—getting ready for the big game.

Rain or shine—drop into Daniel's this morning—put a warm overcoat between you and this weather. On the cold, grey concrete a little wool feels mighty good, and you'll be surprised how much we can give you for $35 or $75.

Get these, too—Daniel's extra heavy soled, water-proofed, stylish oxfords. They'll take you through the line in style and protect you, too; only $8

Tech and Georgia Battle on Muddy Field in Title Game

Georgia Still Seen Winner In Big Tilt

Muddy Gridiron To Hold Score Down; Attendance To Be Large.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

As a premature dusk crept across Grant field Friday afternoon under the low-flying rain clouds a bedraggled group of loyal Tech supporters stood behind the north stands and watched 22 Yellow Jackets slip and slide in a veritable sea of mud.

Mud cleats were of little avail and the gold-jerseyed warriors were clothed in mud from head to foot before they had run signals for 10 minutes. It did not take much imagination to vision Grant field as it will be when the two greatest football teams in Dixie meet today to decide who will take the Constitution cup and the Dixie title home.

If the rain had stopped at dusk and the sun and wind could do their best work until 2 o'clock today there would be a sea of mud under the cleats of the Tornado and the Bulldog today. That is written in the book of fate and it now remains to see whose name will be appended to the book below this writing of the elements.

Elements Have Spoken.
The followers of the Red and Black who believe that a dry field would help the Bulldogs materially and the Tech supporters who believe that Tech will suffer equally from the muddy field may as well give up the ghost of hope and resign themselves to loud weeping and lamentations. The elements have spoken and their word is definite and irrevocable.

There is an air of determination hanging over the Tech camp as game time nears, which makes one wonder just how much the mud will affect this game of games. Undoubtedly that air also covers the bivouac of the Red and Black. And after all there will be little difference in the result of the game because of the mud. The score may be lower but the mud will cause as much trouble for one team as it does for the other.

The rain casts an air of gloom over the football camp this morning which can just barely be dispelled by the mental attitude of the players, which no rain could dampen, but with the fans it is different.

Few Vacant Seats.
Even if the rain continues until game time, which seems hardly probable at this writing, there will be very few vacant seats in the great stadium this afternoon. It might snow and sleet or it might turn warm and the lightning play tag with the goal posts but that football-mad crowd will still be streaming into the gates of Grant field in sunshine, in rain or in snow.

On the eve of any football game the public looks to the sports writer for a prediction on the outcome and just to bear up the ancient tradition we take this opportunity to forget the mud and rain and pick our winner.

Having already made one selection, the naming of Georgia as the probable winner does not come as a surprise to our readers. Let it be understood, however, that we select Georgia to win only on the face of the odds, and do not agree with our contemporary, Mr. Cary, when he says all Tech-Georgia battles do not take the very cutting edge from this tool called dope.

Dope in Bad Way.
When Tech and Georgia meet under normal conditions there is no doubt strong enough to overbalance the fighting spirit shown by both teams. Today, in the mud, the dope will be worse off than usual. We would not be at all surprised to see a 0-0 tie or a 6-6 tie when the final whistle calls the muddy warriors from the field. We would, however, be greatly disappointed in such an outcome. It would be far from satisfactory.

We are in the uncomfortable position of a man who feels bound to predict the outcome of a game on the face of the odds and yet is possessed of a "hunch" that his dope and that of all the experts is due for a tumble.

Georgia SHOULD win. That is our story.

The sports writer is supposed to be neutral in his writing and in his selections of winners in athletic events, and yet he is only human, like all the alumni and supporters of both schools. We have followed Tech in every game this year and have come to know the men and coaches intimately. Our sympathies are with these men today just as sure as the game will be played. Yet we select Georgia to win on the face of the odds.

Our little contact with the Red and Black players and coaches convinces us that they are men, and gentlemen, and if they go down in defeat today they will take a beating without one murmur. The same may be said of that swarm of Yellow Jackets. Heaven forbid any game of chance today. May the deserving team win. We think it will be Georgia, but the man who relegates the Tornado to the background and focuses all his eyes on the Red and Black today may find himself in the position of the man who goes to a prize fight to see action and misses a riot in his own ward.

$50,000 Offered For Mandell Bout

Los Angeles, December 2.—(AP)—Joe Zemanek, heading a group of Tijuana sportsmen, announced today he was ready to offer Sammy Mandell, lightweight boxing champion, a guarantee of $50,000 to meet Baby Joe Gans, negro, in a 15-round match in the Mexican resort February 22. The match would be held in a pavilion seating more than 20,000.

TWO LEADERS AND THE CUP OF CONTENTION

The only thing that can keep the magnificent Constitution trophy, above, from going permanently to either the home of the Bulldog or the Jacket today will be a tie in the battle of the century. A tie may be the result of the game, but if the expressions of the two leaders, seen crouched beside the cup, mean anything there will be a winner today. At the left Captain Chick Shiver, of Georgia, is looking into the distance and seeing that cup in the trophy room at Athens and Captain Ed Crowley, of Tech, is having the same thought, except that he sees the trophy reposing permanently on North Avenue way. Each team has won it once and the victor today carries it away for keeps. Offered by The Constitution upon the renewal of athletic relations between the university and Tech, the trophy means more than its worth in solid silver.

HAWKEYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

All Wet.

On this, the eve of the greatest football game in southern history, it doesn't take much listening to hear the Georgia boys who gave a lot of points on the Bulldogs bemoaning the fact that there is such a thing as the weather man. In fact, some of these gambling laddies, and some others who gamble only in sympathies, are railing mightily at the elements in a vain effort to dry out the sod of Grant field.

And still it rains. Just at this moment, which is rather late on the eve of the struggle, the weather shows little promise of a dry sod for the dancing feet of Georgia's thousand backs and the very few they give Tech credit for having.

All of this lamentation seems a bit foolish to us. The wet field—granting that it will not be dry before game time—may possibly make a difference in the number of points scored by both sides. Perhaps the confident chaps who gave three or four touchdowns in their anxiety to place money on the Bulldog machine will be a bit sorry because of the weather. No football machine can work as smoothly in the mud as it does on a dry field.

BUT, for the life of us, we can't seem to see where the wet field can hurt one team any more than it does the other. Grant for the moment that Georgia's great strength lies in the air and around the ends. The mud will hinder such an attack to some extent. But also grant that Tech's great rush line is its greatest weapon in the battle. You do not have to take my word for statement. Real experts on the game have made this assertion.

No rush line can perform ankle-deep in mud as it does with sound footing. Georgia's passing attack—granting that it is very dangerous—would be hindered by the rain, but one of Tech's greatest defenses against the pass is in rushing the passer, and rushing is made extremely difficult by slippery footing.

The cut-back plays of Estes and Hooks will be made difficult by muddy ground, but so will be stopping and turning of Mizell and Thomason and Read and Randolph and all the rest.

There is one certain result to be looked for when two teams such as the Tech and Georgia outstep step on a wet field. There are likely to be many breaks of the fumble and bad pass variety, but the law of averages has never been repealed and these breaks will usually even up in the long run.

No, there seems to be little use for sobbing on either side because of the muddy field which promises to greet the Bulldogs and Jackets today. The man who has given too many points may have cause for apprehension, but the best team should win just the same and we can see in advance no cause for alibis from either side in case of defeat.

The poor public may suffer if the rain continues, and if it clears and gets cold they will still suffer, but the game will go to the best team, even though the players are forced to play in goggles to keep the mud from splashing in their eyes.

With the wet field there is a strong possibility of a tie, even a scoreless one, but such a result would bring no happiness to either side, and we do not even care to discuss such a distasteful contingency any further.

LINE BATTLE IS SEEN

TECH VICTORY SEEN BECAUSE OF BETTER LINE WITH MUDDY FIELD TODAY

BY BEN COTHMAN.

It was warm and dry in the coach's office at the flats Friday. Outside it was cold and wet. The playing field resembled East Lake.

"Well, coach, what does it look like tomorrow?"

"It looks like rain," but worse than that. The field today will be rather wet and it'll be a fine place for channel swimming but not much football.

Tech, after going through one of the most difficult of schedules, is facing the final and most important game—Georgia. Georgia, with its Thousand Backs, the Red Terrors and Wonder team of 1927.

Tech Power and Drive.
Tech has come through its season with one defeat at the hands of Notre Dame and a tie with Vanderbilt. The other games it has won, by means of sheer power and drive that battered down an opponent's defense and made way for Thomson, Mizell, Read, Randolph and company.

Georgia has won every game, including the defeat of Yale. Georgia has won by impressive scores, and flashed a backfield as full of touchdowns as a siphon is of fire.

And now the two are meeting on a muddy field—which will slow up both teams.

The Jackets have one advantage. If it may be called such. Tulane, you'll recall, was defeated on a muddy grid, and the Jackets had much experience in handling a wet ball. That scoreless tie with Vanderbilt.

Line Battle.
It would seem now that the game must resolve itself into a question of which line, on this field of mud, can outrush the other and keep its feet.

Georgia, of course, has its wonderful passing system and deceptiveness of attack. But when a back is standing ankle-deep in mud, he has a sweet time getting away for a fast start.

If he does get off, he's liable to skid half the distance covered, if any.

And when a ball gets wet, soggy and water-logged, it's a rather difficult matter to pass the ball in anything like an accurate manner. Georgia will try some passes, you can bet the roll on that, but it looks like Georgia will be forced into attempting to ram its way through Tech's line.

Tech Victory.
The same holds true for Tech. But Tech's gains have come through the line all season. Of course, the Jacket forwards have been depended upon to outrush the opposing line and on most occasions have succeeded. That's hard to do on a wet and muddy field, but we believe Tech has the better line, and for this reason believe that Tech will win.

Another Heavy On Way to U. S.

New York, December 2.—(AP)—A rival of Jack Dempsey within the former heavyweight champion's own "family" circle appeared today with the announcement that Pierre Charles, heavyweight champion of Belgium, had sailed for New York from Antwerp. Charles will enter an intensive campaign for Gene Tunney's laurels under the tutelage of Gus Wilson, former trainer of Georges Carpentier, and now Dempsey's trainer, secretary and confidant.

Charles, a 204-pound husky, six feet three inches tall, defeated Jack Humbeck, now campaigning in America, in a 15-round match for the Belgium title a year ago.

He fought a draw with Humbeck shortly before the latter came to the United States.

MAYBE THERE WILL NEVER BE ANOTHER WEEK LIKE THIS

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Just a few hours now and it'll all be over.

Atlanta has been on the verge of insanity for the past week. Hotel room clerks wake up in the middle of the night, mumbling: "No, we have no rooms. No, the manager of the hotel did not make a reservation for you. Well, the park's probably a good place to sleep, or you might try the auditorium."

Maybe the classified columns will carry no more plaintive requests for two, three or five tickets to the game. Maybe we won't be forced to listen much longer to the story of "How I got tickets on the 50-yard line."

After today maybe people will be able to know what's going on in the world. Maybe someone has enquired of Lindbergh and crossed the Atlantic. During this week that hasn't had even a look-in, what with hearing how many points Mr. Whoozie gave Tech, or how Mr. So-and-So plunked the roll right down on the Jackets, even.

Maybe Georgia students will go back to Athens and hold that bonfire which they postponed until

Major League Officials Head For Meeting

Judge Landis Leads Baseball Magnates to Dallas for Minor Meet.

Chicago, December 2.—(AP)—A special "trainload" of baseball officials steamed out today for the minor league meeting at Dallas next week, headed by Kenneth Mountain Landis, baseball's $25,000-a-year commissioner, and Secretary Leslie O'Connor.

The American association had a full representation, led by Thomas J. Hickey, president, as the annual meeting of the A. A. is to be held preceding the minor league gathering. Mike Kelly and Bob Conner, of the Twin Cities club, St. Paul and Minneapolis, joined the association group at St. Louis.

Commissioner Landis expected to drop off at Hot Springs for a round of golf en route, and to polish up a speech he has prepared for the minor league magnates. The commissioner declined to indicate the nature of his remarks, but he said he had "a lot to tell them."

S. S. Barnard, new president of the American league, leads the delegation assembling to take off southward tomorrow. Manager McCarthy, of the Chicago Cubs; Walter McNichols, secretary of the Cleveland club; Billy Evans, new general manager of the Indians, and others are in the Saturday delegation. Another party is organized for Sunday, and the Chicago White Sox officials have made reservations for Monday. The size of the caravan indicates an active player market, as several of the major league clubs have openly announced their ambition to sign up new men for several positions.

Monday. Or maybe Tech will tear down every frame shack and garage in town tonight and dry out a large portion of the very wet ground out near the Flats.

Maybe bellhops will be able to sit in corners and doze peacefully once more and not wear the sides off their shoes what with "Cracked ice for 703" and "Boy, get me a taxi" ringing in their ears 24 hours of the day.

Maybe taxi drivers will be able to run their cabs up and down the streets again in comparative safety. Maybe you'll be able to traverse that distance on Spring street from Marietta to North avenue in something less than 45 minutes.

Maybe the Tech Athletic association will be able to transact its business in a peaceful and uninterrupted manner again and not have to explain to Old Grad of '00 why he and 10,000 others can't go tickets between the two 40-yard lines.

And maybe a lot of people aren't glad that in just a few more hours it'll all be over—until next year, when Tech and Georgia meet again. Maybe it won't be quite so bad that time.

The new FORD CAR will be on display today and next week in the show rooms of the FORD MOTOR CO.

Vandy and Alabama Clash Today in Birmingham

Sloppy Field Darkens Hope Of Vanderbilt

Commodore Coach Bringing Big Squad To Battle Crimson Tide.

Birmingham, Ala., December 2.—(AP)—With the playing field churned into mud by a steady rain today, Vanderbilt's chances to wind up the season with a victory over the Alabama Crimson Tide took a decided slump tonight, in the opinion of observers of both teams.

It was pointed out that a muddy field will seriously handicap Bill Spears and his Commodores in their aerial game, and the sweeping Vanderbilt end runs will in no way profit from a slippery field. These facts tonight gave Alabama an even chance with the Commodores.

Coach Wallace Wade, of the Tide, himself viewed the unceasing rain with no small portion of disgust, for the Alabama mentor had cooked up a bewildering assortment of passes for the annual encounter with the Commodores.

Will Rely on Line. Close observers now believe that the Alabama squad will rely principally on its driving line attack.

With Pearce and Hagler definitely out of the game through injuries, and with Captain Pickard and Earl Smith slated to occupy the bench for the greater portion of the game, Coach Wade is expected to rely on his speed

Tunney Victory Wrecked This Man's Life

Jacksonville, Fla., December 2.—(AP)—A mistaken lurch that Jack Dempsey would defeat Gene Tunney in their recent bout for the heavyweight boxing title wrecked the life of W. E. Rhodes, 38, Jersey City, N. J., he told Jacksonville police tonight.

Rhodes, hungry and penniless, walked into the office of J. J. Rast, secretary to Chief of Police A. J. Roberts, a forlorn figure.

"I'm wanted in New Jersey for embezzlement," he declared. "I'm here to surrender."

He related a story of having taken $500 of money entrusted to him by his employer, betting it on Dempsey. He said that he had hoped to restore the money, but the chance never came and ten days ago as auditors began a check of the company's books, that he disappeared.

Rhodes said he had a wife and two children.

Gaffney Wins Title. Rock Hill, S. C., December 2.—(United News.)—Gaffney High defeated Columbia High, 8 to 0, to win the state high school football championship here today.

sophomore backfield to dent the Vanderbilt forwards.

Vanderbilt is bringing a squad of almost 100 players to Birmingham for the game. About 2,000 fans will accompany the players, according to word from the Commodore city.

RINGSIDE CLUB FIGHT TICKETS ARE ON SALE

Tickets for the third boxing show Tuesday night of the newly-organized Ringside club were placed on sale Friday and, according to Matchmaker Jimmy Mayson, sold at a fast clip.

Baby Stripling, younger brother of W. L. Stripling, will mix with Dandy Kid Dorland, of Oklahoma City, in the main bout of next week's card. In the semi-wind-up Freddie Boorde, who defeated Casey Jones recently, will mix with Little Jeff, of Fort McPherson.

The Stripling-Dorland affair is expected to produce some rather fast action. Both boys are lightweights and Pa Stripling, who looks after Baby, says that his youngster is developing a punch that should carry him along well.

Tom Jones Loses. Tampa, Fla., December 2.—(AP)—Lewis Gonzales, Tampa, won the decision from Tommy Jones, Macon, Ga., in the 10-round main bout of the 11th of Florida's weekly fight card here tonight. Gonzales fought 137 pounds and Jones 137 1/2.

Mickey Feltor, Canton, Ohio, knocked out Teddy Taylor, Valdosta, Ga., in the third round of the second scheduled 10-rounder. They are midweights. In the third 10-rounder, Pete Rivera, Tampa, featherweight, won the decision from Joe Temmes, Ocala.

GRID LEGENDS DESTROYED BY GEORGIA'S MAD RUSH

A destroyer of football legends. That is a term which has not yet been applied to the Georgia Battalion of Death which Friday afternoon wound up its practice on Sanford field preparatory to embarking for Atlanta, the battle with Tech and the fight for the Constitution cup. But no term was ever more apt.

During a colorful and sensational season, which has brought the Dream and Wonder team to the doorway of the Southern conference championship and put it on speaking terms with that most mythical yet most prized honor in the gridiron world—the national title, there have been many shattered traditions that mark the pathway of destruction carved by the Battalion of Death. In fact, shattered traditions almost keep pace with brilliant victories. No greater comparison can be drawn.

One of the most popular theories concerning football is that no team, no matter how great, can keep at top pitch throughout the season. Nine games, nine victories, all impressive wins save the Yale triumph, is the answer made by the Battalion of Death to this age-old maxim. Exit tradition number 1.

Georgia Wins Over Yale. For many years the elegant Yale bowl has been the fond hope of a Georgia victory over the Blue. On October 8, the evening sky covering this former town of despair saw an inspired Georgia team make four of the greatest stands ever recorded in a fourth quarter of a football game and by a brilliant 14-to-10 victory turn this valley of humiliation into a glorious rose-colored vale of triumph and send another well-worn tradition scampering over the Connecticut hills. Exit theory No. 2.

Hardly had the telegraph wires heralding this victory become cold when the message was flashed that Furman, possessing one of the best teams in the S. I. A. A. and which defeated Georgia in 1926, would catch the Team of Destiny on the eve following its great triumph over Yale. Georgia will be overconfident said many. Any team is bound to slump in the game following a spectacular stand. That one of football's best hallowed traditions. An impressive 32-to-0 victory against the Purple Hurricane draped Greenville in black and sent 1,000 disappointed Southerners back to the Palmetto State with nothing but sorrow and another busted gridiron theory as traveling companions.

Desperate Deposters. With three traditions thrown roughly into the discard, the deposters, in desperation, went into the phantom land. They went over into the comely world of Alabama and from a peaceful tomb under the green sod of Rickwood park resurrected the ancient and decrepit form of the "The Ghost of Rickwood." "It" shouted the theory followers, "is the phantom form which has stalked majestically with the Alabama team for the last four years. His ghostly image will spell your downfall." The Battalion of Death heard this challenge. Its reply was a 20-to-6 victory. The ghost of Rickwood retired to its tomb and for the fourth time during the season funeral services were held over a supposed gill-edge and steel-jacketed tradition.

With tradition's ranks bleeding and practically destroyed, the followers of its banner grouped to make a last stand. From the storehouse of ancient and time-honored legend was brought into bold relief the gaunt specter of that most celebrated of all gridiron theories—"dope means little in a Tech-Georgia game."

They point to other years. That no matter which team is the best up to that game, the specter of the Tech-Georgia game, shrouded in its traditional rivalry, will surmount every obstacle and bring the two eleven to an equality.

Every man has a right to his own opinion. This writer would be the last to deny him the privilege, but our firm conviction is that another tradition is due for burial under the sod of Grant field today.

Prisoners Box; Settle Grudges. Fort Leavenworth, Kans., December 2.—(AP)—Prisoners at the United States disciplinary barracks settle their quarrels with gloved fists in the ring.

Guards who observe that a prisoner has a grudge against another report the discovery to the commandant, Colonel William M. Morrow. From these reports bouts are matched, and the boxing card is the big event for the first night of every month. Officers of the disciplinary barracks and the military post, as well as the "neutral" prisoners, witness the grudge fights.

Like school boys, most of the prisoners forget the grudges after being permitted to use their arms as an outlet for injured feelings.

Charles Pfiel Dies After Long Illness

Pfiel Was Head of U. S. G. A.; Lived in Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., December 2.—(AP)—Charles O. Pfiel, recently nominated for president of the United States Golf association, died at the Baptist Memorial hospital here tonight after several weeks' illness from a form of septicaemia. He was 56 years old.

Mr. Pfiel was senior member of the firm of Pfiel and Aswumh, architects, had been in ill health about six months, and went to the hospital October 1, where his ailment was diagnosed. The cause of the blood poisoning which was followed by complications, was not determined.

From the first his condition was considered serious. Last night he suffered a relapse and early today lapsed into unconsciousness.

Mr. Pfiel's nomination was equivalent to election at the 1928 annual meeting scheduled for next month, was announced in New York October 28, and news of the action reached Mr. Pfiel at the hospital. While he was seriously ill at that time, he was pleased when Mrs. Pfiel, who remained at his side throughout his illness, informed him of his selection.

Nomination of the Memphis architect to the presidency of the U. S. G. A. marked the first time a westerner ever was slated for that office and was credited with healing the old rift between the U. S. G. A. and the Western Golf association. Mr. Pfiel, who was a former president of the Western and senior vice president of the U. S. G. A., was largely responsible for bringing about an understanding between these organizations several years ago when they were engaged in disputes.

Sioux City sold Elsh to Pittsburgh in 1922 for $10,000, but the White Sox management advanced the claim before Judge Landis that it had a contract giving it an option on all Sioux City players. Judge Landis upheld this contention, ordering Pittsburgh to release Elsh to the White Sox. This was done and Pittsburgh refused to pay Sioux City for the player. In the face of these facts, Attorney Stansbury made a motion to dismiss the suit brought by Sioux City against the Pittsburgh club. The matter was taken under advisement.

Like school boys, most of the prisoners forget the grudges after being permitted to use their arms as an outlet for injured feelings.

NEW MEANING IS GIVEN TO COURT RULE

New York, December 2.—(AP)—The rule on blocking, considered ambiguous by leading basketball officials and long the subject of controversy, probably will cause no further difficulty for referees of intercollegiate court games.

Clarifying of the rule which merely stated that "blocking is impeding the progress of an opponent who has the ball" resulted at the annual fall meeting of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league here.

The following interpretation of rule 7, section 12, was adopted: "No blocking foul results, unless personal contact is made with the following exception: If a player attains a position on the floor which results in cutting off an opponent and subsequently makes any movement or motion that impedes the progress of the opponent cut off, even though no personal contact with his opponent is effected thereby, it may be a block."

Speaking for the executive committee of the league, of which he is a member, Ellwood Kemp, Jr., of New York, declared the league adopted this interpretation in an effort to make the game more uniform. The game will be speeded up, he said, less fouls committed, and the play made more interesting to the spectators.

William M. Barber, of Yale, was selected president of the league. Mr. Kemp again was named secretary and treasurer.

Rockne Pupil Has High Scoring Team

Helena, Mont.—Under the tutelage of Wilbur S. Eaton, Mount St. Charles college this season has broken from football obscurity to demand recognition in the northwest.

This is Eaton's second year with the Saints. The former end at Notre Dame brought to the little college the Knute Rockne system of coaching. From the meager material with which he had to deal he evolved a team that held Washington State college to a 6-to-6 tie, lost 8 to 0, to Montana university; defeated Montana Mines, 60 to 6, to win the Montana collegiate conference title; beat Gonzaga university of Spokane, 21 to 0, and amassed 135 points against Montana State Normal in one game.

Our greatest representative in this field is "Bobby" Jones. His four years at Tech, added to the fact that he is a born gentleman, makes him extend the hand of courtesy to victor or vanquished at the end of every contest.

"This is Tech tradition and I know that even the youngest freshman will live up to this code of the gentleman next Saturday."

Good Sportsmanship Urged by Brittain

Tech President, in Address to Student Body, Asks Them To Take Victory or Loss in Right Way.

Following is the address by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, made to the student body at a pep meeting held Thursday morning in the Tech gym.

Dr. Brittain urges the students to conduct themselves as gentlemen and to take victory or defeat in a true sportsmanlike manner. Dr. Brittain's address follows:

"On the eve of a great battle on the banks of the Nile, Napoleon pointed to the Pyramids and stirred the hearts of a French army with the expression, 'Soldiers, 40 centuries look down upon you.' Saturday, the eyes of Georgia, the south and even the entire nation will focus attention on Georgia Tech.

"On that day we are the hosts for the largest assemblage ever gathered in this section for a great contest—to decide the football championship of Dixie.

"On your young shoulders will rest to a great degree the responsibility I am not talking now about the game itself. I know the members of our team will bear themselves bravely and well and will carry the Gold and White proudly and splendidly forward as they have done throughout the season.

But I am now addressing myself to the rest of us—the watchers on the side lines—and wondering whether we shall prove ourselves worthy of our great representatives on the gridiron. The test for us is whether we shall be what the world calls good sports in this critical time, or poor losers.

"One of the marks of good sportsmanship is the ability to bear adverse decisions by the umpire and referee without the jeers and groans of the cheap spectators unfortunate in early upbreeding. Your team and your friends will not be proud of you if you cannot exercise this control.

"Above all, however, is the test we shall undergo as hosts on that occasion. Our greatest rivalry will be our guests. Shall we rise to the occasion and prove real sportsmen and gentlemen? Win or lose—that is the outstanding question and I know that you, Georgia Tech men, will bear yourselves proudly as gentlemen in this great contest with your rivals.

"Our greatest representative in this field is 'Bobby' Jones. His four years at Tech, added to the fact that he is a born gentleman, makes him extend the hand of courtesy to victor or vanquished at the end of every contest.

"This is Tech tradition and I know that even the youngest freshman will live up to this code of the gentleman next Saturday."

BOSTON GETS OWN MADISON SQUARE HALL

Boston, December 2.—(United News.)—Boston's Madison Square Garden, which is to surmount the new north railroad station, has been formally organized.

A board of directors comprising New England business men, Boston and Maine railroad officials and officers of the Madison Square Garden corporation, of New York, met and elected officers.

John R. Macomber, broker, was chosen chairman of the board, which includes among its 15 members, G. L. "Tex" Rickard, president of the Madison Square Garden in New York.

Rickard plans to bring to this 18,000-capacity arena many of the attractions that have made his New York establishment famous.

Speaking at a banquet which followed the organization, the famed boxing promoter intimated he might stage a major heavyweight boxing contest in Boston.

The vast indoor amphitheater, one of the largest in the world, will be completed by November 1, 1929, it was announced. When completed, the amphitheater and railroad station combined will have cost about $10,000,000.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Andrew Johnson.

by CARROLL MANSFIELD

A FEW HOURS AFTER ABRAHAM LINCOLN DIED, APRIL 15, 1865, ANDREW JOHNSON, THE VICE-PRESIDENT, TOOK THE OATH OF OFFICE AS PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES. JOHNSON, WHO BECAME HIS CAREER AS A TAILOR IN EAST TENNESSEE, HAD NEVER GONE TO SCHOOL. HIS WIFE TAUGHT HIM TO WRITE.

BELONGING TO THE CLASS THEN KNOWN IN THE SOUTH AS "POOR WHITES," HE EARLY CHAMPIONED ITS CAUSE AGAINST THE WEALTHY AND ARISTOCRATIC SLAVE-OWNERS. IN TIME, HE ROSE TO BE GOVERNOR OF TENNESSEE, AND IN 1857 WAS ELECTED TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE. HE WAS THE ONLY SOUTHERN SENATOR TO STAND FIRMLY BY THE UNION, AND BITTERLY CONDEMNED SECESSION AS "UNHOLY REBELLION."

IN 1862, WHEN THE FEDERAL ARMY OVER-RAN TENNESSEE, JOHNSON WAS APPOINTED MILITARY GOVERNOR OF HIS STATE. WITH THE RANK OF BRIGADIER-GENERAL, IN THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN OF 1864, LINCOLN WANTED A SOUTHERN MAN ON THE TICKET WITH HIM, AND CHOSE JOHNSON AS CANDIDATE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

JOHNSON WAS PATRIOTIC, COURAGEOUS AND HONEST, BUT EGOTISTICAL AND VINDICTIVE TO ALL WHO OPPOSED HIM. HE LACKED PATIENCE, TACT AND KINDNESS: QUALITIES WHICH WERE SORELY NEEDED FOR THE GREAT TASK OF RECONSTRUCTION THAT CONFRONTED HIM. MONDAY—THE PROBLEM OF RECONSTRUCTION.

PRISONER DENIES CRUCIFYING GIRL

West Palm Beach, Fla., December 2.—(AP)—Admitting his escape from Colorado state prison last September along with two other prisoners, but denying any knowledge of the crucifixion of a woman alleged to have been committed by the fugitives, Charles Clark was held here today for Colorado authorities.

Advices from Colorado today stated that a woman had been found crucified in an isolated cabin believed to have been occupied by the fugitives following their escape. Clark from his cell told newspapermen he knew nothing about this, but readily related his sensational escape through the streets of Canon City, Colo., as members of the prison band to which he belonged were being marched to the city park for a concert. Orville J. Tulley, convicted murderer, was one of his companions in the dash for liberty, but Clark did not name the other men.

In his flight from the city, Clark said he became entangled in a wire fence and was held behind by the other men. He claimed he had not seen them since.

Clark was acquitted in criminal court of record here three weeks on a charge of breaking and entering a house in the suburbs. At the time of his escape from Colorado he was serving a seven-year sentence for receiving stolen goods.

A telegram received from the United States department of justice recited a prison record for Clark showing that he had been in and out of prison from various prisons in this country. He was said to have gone under several aliases, among them being Frank Murray and Frank Marshall. Clark denied the department's record and said that the accusations

DR. HENRY C. WHITE BURIED IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., December 2.—(AP)—Practically the entire city of Athens practically the personnel of the University of Georgia to pay tribute to Professor Henry C. White, professor of chemistry, who was buried today. Professor White died Wednesday night following an illness of several weeks with pneumonia.

Probably no educator in the state was more widely known for his work of research than was Professor White, who for the past 55 years had been connected with the university here. He was 79 years old and during his career as a teacher, lecturer, author and scholar he has made a specific study of soil chemistry. He was a native of Baltimore.

Funeral services were conducted from the Emmanuel Episcopal church, where hundreds of friends were turned away because of inadequate seating capacity.

Australian Resigns.

Canberra, Australia, December 2.—(AP)—The resignation of Sir Hugh Denison, Australian commissioner in the United States, was announced today by Premier Bruce.

WOMAN TELLS OF CABIN ATTACK.

Denver, December 2.—(AP)—Ten days after the escape of three convicts from the Colorado prison band, Mrs. George Nelson, living on remote mountain ranch southwest of Denver reported being spiked to the floor of her cabin by an ice pick driven through her head.

The man who wielded the ice pick answered the description of Orville J. Tulley, a life-termer, who escaped with Charles Clark, now arrested at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Nelson said the attack was made after her assailant had demanded food and money. Two other men, believed by authorities to have been Clark and Carl Michaels, the third man to escape, were robbing the chicken house while the man identified as Tulley entered Mrs. Nelson's home. The three convicts were playing in the prison band at a county fair at Hugo, Colo., when they made their escape, September 16.

Queen Mary To Be Exiled With King Ben

Newberry, Mich., December 2.—(AP)—Queen Mary Purnell probably will be forced into exile with King Benjamin Purnell, in the final carrying out of the decree of Circuit Judge Louis H. Fead, who heard the state's dissolution suit against the House of David colony.

Judge Fead so decided today over the objection of W. J. Barnard, of colony counsel, a hearing here to formulate the final decree of receiver ordered by the court.

Barnard submitted a certificate from three doctors showing that Purnell, who in the heyday of his career at the House of David colony, weighed something like 200 pounds, has shrunk to less than 90 pounds. The certificates said he was in the advanced stages of tuberculosis in both lungs, has a heart lesion and that his recovery is "impossible."

Judge Fead will issue an order directing that the state may appoint a physician to examine Purnell and if conditions are found to be as represented no attempt will be made to remove him until his condition is improved.

Judge Fead has decided that the Farmers & Merchants' National Bank and Trust company of Benton Harbor will be named receiver of the colony.

Any Known Wet Candidate to Get Fire of W.C.T.U.

Athens, Ga., December 2.—(AP)—Resolutions calling upon democratic leaders of Georgia to "oppose by all legitimate means the nomination of Governor Smith of New York; Governor Ritchie, of Maryland; Senator Reed, of Missouri, or any other known wet for the head of the democratic ticket for president" were passed here yesterday by the eighth district Women's Christian Temperance union.

Further resolutions served notice upon political parties that the W.C.T.U. of the Temperance union of the eighth Georgia district will in every instance vote only for "dry candidates."

SUIT OF CABARET DANCER IS CLOSED BY HAND OF DEATH

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, December 2.—In the city morgue today lay the body of a young girl, only a few weeks ago known up and down Broadway as Bobby Stevens, cabaret dancer, but really Ella Williams, 24, whose origin and possible kinship police have been unable to discover.

Unless someone comes to the rescue at this late date, Ella Williams will be buried in the Potter's field within three days, for she died penniless. And yet, in the files of the New York supreme court there is pending a suit for $50,000 damages which Miss Williams brought against the Tivoli Amusement company, former lessee of the Grand Street theater, for injuries she received there last year when she tripped on a rug and fell down a flight of stairs, injuring her head and breaking her arm.

There being no relatives to claim her body or to press the suit as her next of kin, however, the hand of death probably has written off her suit. And her potential wealth has been lost to her in death to save her from the obscurity of a pauper's grave.

The girl's death, on Thanksgiving day, probably hastened by the injuries received in the backstage accident, was due to heart disease and, being unclaimed, her body was sent to the morgue, where it lay until today unidentified.

AUSTRALIA ACCEPTS ENVOY'S RESIGNATION

(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Sydney, Australia, December 2.—The commonwealth government has accepted the resignation of Sir H. R. Denison, Australian commissioner to the United States, dating from January. A successor will not be appointed until the government consults the commissioner on the whole question of future Australian representation in the United States.

No. 3 Bailey's High Art Series

It is merely youth that fills the bill, for Davidson says the ratio of graduates from many flying schools to the number of candidates who begin training is 10 to 1. How to get more men qualified without lowering the standard, of requirements forms a grave problem.

"It now appears that certain changes in training methods themselves, combined with a more efficient selection of cadet personnel, will bring about the desired result," he added. "There is no question that important progress is being made in that regard."

Still another adverse condition in the corps affecting commissioned personnel is the post-war promotion blockade which the air secretary said results in lower efficiency because of its effect on morale.

Amplifying the seriousness of the part that age plays in building up and maintaining adequate officer personnel for the air, the secretary said another problem is that of what to do with air officers "no longer fit to fly" because of age.

"It is definitely established that a flying officer can not hope to remain reasonably efficient in service type flying long enough to reach the retirement age of 40 years," he said. "The services of those officers who have had long experience in flying should not be lost, as would probably be the case in most instances under the present law. Flying undoubtedly makes extreme physical demands and induces physical strains not inherent to other branches of the military service."

BLOOD TEST USED IN PARENTHOOD TRIAL IN GERMANY

Berlin, December 2.—(AP)—A German court today has made a decision based on the determination of the parenthood of a child by blood tests.

A woman in the case was charged with perjury for describing as the father of her child a man who denied paternity. All three persons involved underwent blood tests by the state medical board at Würzburg.

The doctors reported to the court that the man was not the father of the child. The woman was convicted of perjury and sentenced to six months' imprisonment.
